TOTAL UNITS	46

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—Forty-six units are voting today under the Proctor option law, which provides cities and townships as the unit. These include the cities of Noblesville, Wabash, Delphi, Huntington, Petersburg, Covington, Veedersburg, Connersville, Vevay, Tipton, Green Castle, Kokomo, Rushville, Kendallville, Marion and Gas City and sixteen towns and many townships.

In the first set of elections under the new option law, which were held yesterday in Lawrence county the "drys" won in each of the eight units voting. The "dry" vote in the cities of Bedford and Mitchell and the six townships, Shawswick, Guthrie, Marshall, Spicevalley, Bone and Indian Creek, is said to have been larger than two years ago when the county voted "dry" under the county option law.

Church Bells Call to the Polls.

The ringing of church bells in the cities and towns where elections are being held at six o'clock this morning summoned the voters to the polls. In many places, the "drys" adopted the same plans for election day as were used two years ago. In some localities all-day prayer meetings were held and the women at places where the weather would permit, appeared early at the polls.

Children are also playing an important part in the election and in some towns appeared on their way to school wearing big placards pinned on their clothing bearing some legend on the order of "Vote yes for my sake." At Noblesville a parade was scheduled but was called off on account of the weather.

The "wets" are making just as active a campaign to get out their votes as the "drys," only their work is more on the quiet. They are predicting a close vote and the return of the saloon in many units.

RESULT WILL BE CLOSE.

Ladies Taking Active Part in the Contest at Decatur.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Decatur, Ind., Feb. 28.—The local option election in Decatur today is proving to be a lively affair. The polls opened at 6 o'clock and for the first two hours there was not much doing, but at 9 o'clock the ladies of the town held a mass meeting in the business district and marched to the Methodist church, where a prayer meeting of three hours duration was held. The ministers and the citizens interested in having no saloons are working with might and main to urge all the "dry" voters to the polls, while most of the business men are just as eager to get the "wet" voters out. It is predicted that the election will be very close, neither side being expected to win by more than fifty majority. Nearly all the voters were early and at 3 o'clock this afternoon fully three-fourths of the votes were cast. The anti-saloon faction is apparently certain of victory and the liquor men are apparently just as confident, so it is very evident that the results are going to be very close.

LIVELY AT KENDALLVILLE.

Dry Contingent Confident of Victory in Noble County City.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 28.—Intense interest characterizes the local option election here today, and the prevailing opinion seems to be that Kendallville will continue in the "dry" column, though the majority will probably be small. To a considerable degree the business men, unlike the situation in some other cities, are strongly aligned with the temperance forces.

There was a heavy early vote, and it is predicted that fully seven-eighths of the total vote will come out. There has been no disturbance.

BOTH FACTIONS CONFIDENT

Roanoke is Voting Heavily and Awaiting Result Quietly.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Roanoke, Ind., Feb. 28.—Up until noon today the voting has been very lively and fully 60 per cent. of the votes have been cast. Neither side looks for a big majority, but both factions are almost sure of victory. There has been no demonstration of any kind and the citizens are quietly awaiting the outcome. The "drys" probably have a slight advantage over their opponents and if a victory could be predicted for either side the anti-saloon people would be given the benefit of the doubt.

WABASH ABSORBED, BUT QUIET.

Business Practically Suspended and Result Will Be Close.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Wabash, Ind., Feb. 28.—The option election being held in this city today has put a damper to all business activities. Everyone is interested in the outcome, but little excitement is being shown. Instead of the demonstrations expected the city is undergoing a sleeping spell. The only attempt made by either faction to arouse the voters was a school children's parade marshalled by the "dry" forces. A large percent of the voters have turned in their decisions, but there are still quite a few votes to be cast.

REMEMBER THAT MARCH WEATHER ONE YEAR AGO?

By the way—what do you remember about the weather of March one year ago? It smashed a number of March records for this region, with an almost entire absence of rain of other variety of storm and a temperature that on one day reached the maximum of 86 degrees. The mean temperature for the month was 49.3 degrees; the mean maximum 62.5 degrees and the mean minimum 36.1 degrees.

Just at the threshold of a new March, the official records of temperature taken by Observer O. E. Mohler for March, 1910, are interesting. They follow:

DRY TERRITORY IS PROTECTED

By Amended Proctor Bill Cannot Become Automatically Wet.

GAIN FOR THE DRYS; ROGGEN VOTES AYE

Day's Proceedings of the Legislature of the Hoosier State.

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—The "drys" won a substantial victory in the house of the Indiana legislature this morning when Proctor local option bill No. 2 was amended so that townships outside the territorial limits of incorporated cities shall not become automatically wet.

But the victory for the conservatives on the liquor question was snatched from defeat and was wrought through an amendment offered by Representative Hammond, democrat. The amendment earlier in the morning was voted down. Upon motion of the author of the amendment to reconsider many democrats lined up with the republicans and the representative from Miami.

Roggen Votes for Amendment.

The democrats voting against the tabling of the amendment and for its adoption were Representatives Benz, Billman, Clore, Duncan, Hammond, Higgins, McCabe, McGinnis, Merriman, Roggen, Smith, Sunkel Veach, Voris, Wagner, Wells, Wright and Young. The republicans voting for the tabling of the Hammond amendment and against its adoption were Representatives Clark and Grieger.

In offering his amendment Representative Hammond said that since his democratic brethren had been talking and preaching economy since the session began he would give them an opportunity to practice economy. He declared that if his amendment were not adopted something like $100,000 would be spent in the state for local option elections in territories that are now "dry" and that no power on earth could turn "wet." His plea was for the elimination of needless election as an economy measure.

Many Did Not Understand.

Reconsideration of the vote on the amendment was granted on the representation of the author that many of the members had not understood how they were voting.

Representative Seidensticker, though voting against the amendment, said that he was not especially opposed to it, but he believed it to be asleep in the direction of economy.

Senator Proctor, the author of the bill, declared that the senate would not concur in the amendment as it is now incorporated in the measure.

The measure was advanced to third reading.

One of the anomalies of the morning was Representative Faris' role in voting to table the motion to reconsider the Hammond amendment. Later he quietly explained it was simply "a case of confusion." He voted against the tabling of the amendment.

Divide on the Constitution.

The Stotzenburg senate bill embodying Governor Marshall's plan for a new state constitution, which was read for the first time in the house last night, was reported out of committee this morning with a report divided on party lines. The reports were ordered printed.

The passage of the Hauck bill concerning the supreme and appellate courts, the reading and amendment of the Fleming good roads bill, the advancement of house and senate bills and the hearing of committee reports composed the work of the state senate this morning.

The Hauck bill makes it possible for certain cases that have been sent to the appellate court to be transferred to the supreme court on account of the large amount of work that has accumulated in the appellate court, and the measure passed by a vote of 32 to 4.

Fleming Good Roads Bill.

The reading of the Fleming good roads bill took a great deal of time, as the measure is exhaustive in its provisions for a state highway board and a state road engineer to be paid out of the funds derived from approved automobile tax.

Senator Fleming offered a number of amendments concerning the manner in which the provision of the bill shall be put in operation and a final vote will be taken at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

In explaining the bill Senator Fleming declared that the road building material of the state was being exhausted rapidly under the present system without great permanency in the roads. He pointed out that there are over sixty thousand miles of public road in the state with over six thousand supervisors working independently to keep up these highways. There is need for an engineer who shall unify the methods over the state and conserve the road building material.

Only Big Bills Have Chance.

Senator Stotzenburg has announced that only very important senate bills will be acted on at this time for the reason that the house will not have time to take them up and the senate will therefore devote its attention to the passage of house bills for the rest of the week.

The Lieb bill providing for legislative apportionment came from committee with two reports, the republicans recommending indefinite postponement, the democrats recommending passage.

Representative McCarty failed in an effort to tack on an amendment providing for the separation of Marion and Hendricks counties, and giving to each a senator. The measure went to engrossment.

Reapportionment Bill.

The Cravens congressional reapportionment bill, also reported with a divided report was sent to engrossment as recommended by the majority of the committee.

The Branaman bill dividing the state into five supreme court districts to conform to changes in population was advanced to engrossment.

Petitions, calling for a caucus of the majority members of the senate on the Keegan child labor bill, were being circulated in the upper branch of the legislature this afternoon. It is said an effort will be made in the case to strike out the senate amendment to the bill changing the age limit to 18 years for girls.

LEGISLATIVE GOSSIP.

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—No member of the legislature is busier than Senator Stephen B. Fleming, of Fort Wayne, and few take the time to get systematic exercise, but the senator from Allen and Adams always finds time for his walk. And be it known that his walk has nothing of the stroll about it. When Senator Fleming goes on a walk his companions complain that they are compelled to go on a run.

The other day he made a trip to Martinsville with some of his friends and a walk was suggested. The senator led the way and after a few miles he had exhausted the pedestrian powers of the rest of the party. He kept on, however, and before he returned he had covered four miles over the most forbidding of Morgan county's hills. At Indianapolis Senator Fleming thinks nothing of taking an eight-mile walk at the high rate of four miles an hour and maintaining about the same rate of speed during the entire journey. Even while the senate is in session, this wanderlust seems to possess him for he is seldom in his seat and is continually moving about the chamber conversing with supporter and opponent alike.

Fun From an Editorial.

The reading of an editorial from the pen of former State Senator Donald McCallum, of the Batesville Tribune, by Senator Ralph Kane during the consideration of the Stotzenburg bill for a new constitution was the occasion for unrestrained merriment in the senate.

Senator Proctor was in the chair when Senator Kane came to the passage, "and Thomas, whose surname is Marshall, sent for his armor-bearer, Robert, whose surname is Proctor," and the situation appealed strongly to his sense of humor. The editorial was in imitation of biblical style and was a burlesque of the calling of the democratic caucus at which the plan of substituting a new constitution was adopted.

Senator Powers' Maple Syrup Dinner.

Steuben county pancakes, maple syrup and butter from the farm of Senator Stephen A. Powers, of Angola, were the viands over which the members of the senate, the officials on that side of the state house, the stenographers and the press representatives enjoyed the hospitality of the senator from Steuben last evening at his biennial pancake dinner and dance.

More than a hundred covers were laid and following the banquet responses were made by Lieut.-Gov. Frank Hall, Senators Kistler, Wood, Moore and Kane, all of whom offered toasts in keeping with the spirit which was embodied in the poem-invitation by Senator Powers which had been furnished each guest.

Noteworthy among the events of the evening were the dancing feat of Senator Powers and Lieut.-Gov. Hall, which, though not environed as the celebrated "hoe down" indulged in by President Taft and Speaker Cannon, proves that time has effaced neither skill nor inclination.

Lieut.-Gov. Hall went to his home in Rushville after attending the Powers banquet, where he will vote in the local option election that is being held there under the new city and township option law which he assisted in enacting at the present session of the legislature. He will attempt to vote soon after the opening of the polls and return in time to call the senate to order. In case he is delayed that duty will be performed by Senator Stotzenburg, president pro tem of the senate.

ELKS SELECT A SLOGAN.

"Follow Me, B. P. O. E." to Be Rallying Cry for State Meet.

Fort Wayne lodge of Elks Monday evening adopted "Follow Me, B. P. O. E." as the slogan for the state meeting and mardi gras of the Elks in this city in May. Other business of the evening included the selection of two addition committees, as follows:

Hotels—J. J. Dormer, W. F. Ranke, Maurice Niezer, L. C. Delagrange and C. L. Biederwolf.

Registration—J. H. Hobrock, H. A. Wiebke, Maurice Niezer, G. D. Piepenbrink, W. P. Walsh.

WORKS GAME AGAIN.

Sergeant Seiler, in charge of the local army recruiting station received word this morning that the man giving his name as Edward J. Miller, who enlisted at the local station last Thursday, and disappeared after he had secured a couple of meals, had worked the same game on the recruiting officer at Lima, O., after leaving here, and in addition had managed to get about five dollars out of some recruits in the office. Other stations have been notified to keep a sharp lookout for the man and to pick him up and have him looked up if he puts in appearance.

PREPARING TO BUILD.

R. L. Romy, the real estate agent, will start next Monday to excavate on property on the west side of Lafayette street, between Berry and Wayne streets, preparatory to erecting a two-story double brick flat, which will cost in the neighborhood of $6,000. Plans for the flat were drawn by Architect John King. Architects Griffith & Fair are also working on plans for Mr. Romy, for five modern houses, which he will erect this spring on Spy Run avenue, a short distance north of the Spy Run bridge.

Attorney D. Burns Douglass was in Auburn on business Monday.

CANNOT GET A LORIMER VOTE

Filibuster in the Senate is Continued After All Night Session.

ALL COMPROMISE PROPOSALS FAIL

Friends of Illinois Senator Still Fighting, But Not With Much Show.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The case of Senator Lorimer and the question of his title to a seat in the senate stood this afternoon apparently where it has stood for many days, his supporters confidently believing in the existence of a safe majority in his behalf if only a vote could be reached and his opponents, for one reason or another, fighting inch by inch, to prevent a vote.

Some of them believe that in an extra session Lorimer would be ejected and for that reason want adjournment to find the matter still pending; others are willing to have a vote on Lorimer if they can have also a vote on other matters, especially the permanent tariff board bill, to which some of Lorimer's supporters are bitterly opposed.

The senate was in continuous session all night and faced the possibility of another all night session in a mood anything but amiable.

Lorimer Crowd Still Fighting.

The friends of Senator Lorimer have by no means surrendered hope of getting a vote in his case before final adjournment. They are taking up the obstacles as they present themselves and say they are meeting with some success.

Senator Stone, who last night refused absolutely to consent to a vote, said today that he would not stand out. There also was supposed to be a menace in Senator Cummins' demand that the vote on the tariff board bill should be coupled with a vote on the Lorimer resolution, but he intimated that if in the end it became evident that a vote could not be obtained on the tariff board bill he would yield to the pressure for a ballot on Lorimer.

Chamber Was Deserted.

From 8:15 until 11 o'clock today the senate chamber was deserted. Senators lost no time in getting away after the beginning of the recess, but by 11 o'clock many began to return.

For the most part they looked surprisingly fresh considering the ordeal through which they had passed but some confessed to great fatigue.

Most of the early arrivals were democrats. They came to attend a party conference in which it was hoped a program might be agreed upon which would permit a disentanglement of the snarl. The conference was called at the instance of Senator Stone, who insisted that before he would agree to any program he must have behind him a decision of his party in the senate.

The Missouri senator freely assumed responsibility for last night's failure to reach an understanding and he let his friends know that he would hold out indefinitely unless he could be assured of party co-operation. He said he was not willing to act on the individual responsibility of any one senator meaning Senator Bailey.

Stone Holds Fast.

It appeared that Mr. Bailey had indicated a willingness to surrender his position against a vote on the tariff board providing a vote could be assured on the Lorimer resolution. Mr. Stone strenuously opposes Lorimer and while he did not go so far as to say there should be no vote in that matter he insisted that there should be party concert.

Vice President Sherman was in the chair when the senate resumed the session of Monday at 11 a. m. About fifty senators were in their places at this hour and others were drifting in rapidly.

Beveridge Makes Inquiry.

Senator Bristow, acting as relief for Senator Crawford, the leading filibusterer against the Lorimer resolution, was recognized by the vice president, but immediately yielded to Senator Beveridge, who wanted to know if the continuance of legislative day of Monday past the hour of 12 o'clock noon would vitiate the special order for a vote on the direct election of senators fixed for that hour. The chair held that it would. Senator Nelson then moved that when an adjournment of Monday's session was taken it be to meet at 11:50 today. This was agreed to.

Senator Money, of Mississippi, pleaded with both sides not to delay action on the various important matters before the senate. He said the democrats had no intention of delaying a vote on Lorimer.

Senator Gallinger at 11:20 moved adjournment until 11:50 o'clock and it was ordered.

Mr. Stone was still speaking at 2:05 o'clock and there was nothing to indicate any intention soon to cease.

IN ALL-NIGHT SESSION.

Anti-Lorimer Filibuster Carried Forward to Broad Daylight.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Vice President Sherman gazed wearily over the senate and toyed idly with his favorite ivory gavel as the electric lights were turned out in the chamber today and the chamber today and the dawning daylight was allowed to stream in. Dressed in evening clothes, which he wore at midnight when he came from his annual reception to official Washington, Mr. Sherman looked strangely out of place. He had no use for the ivory gavel. The senate had been in session all night and individually and collectively the members were too tired to create any disorder.

Mr. Sherman left the chair at 7:15 to be succeeded by Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut.

Another Filibuster.

Another filibuster was in progress. Another name had been added to the list of "long distance talkers." The lungs of Senator Crawford, of South Dakota, were the medium through which a vote on the Lorimer case had been prevented during the night in the face of determination on the part of Senator Lorimer's supporters to put the endurance of his opponents to a test.

More members and older members were kept in the senate chamber throughout the night than on any occasion within the recollection of the most experienced legislator present. Again and again there were roll calls to develop whether there was a quorum present and not once did the attendance fall below sixtysix, which is twenty more than a majority of the senate membership.

Like a City Park at Dawn.

Whenever the bells were sounded for a roll call scenes were depicted not unlike those in city parks at dawn, following long sultry summer nights. The bell in the senate chamber was like the rap of a policeman's baton signalling the sleepers that it was time to turn out. Every one of the leather settees was occupied with a sleeper. This condition not only existed in the cloak rooms and in the marble room, but around the walls of the chamber. As the senators' names were called they would pile off the improvised beds and take their places until their names were reached. Then there would be scrambles for places, for there were not couches enough for all.

There were in the chamber men who sought no rest. They were the men who were seeking some outlet from the tangled situation, some agreement by which a vote could be taken on the Lorimer case, and other measures such as the permanent tariff board bill, which entered into the confusion and was partly responsible for the refusal of vote on the question of the junior Illinois senator's right to retain his seat.

Filibuster Begins.

The filibuster actually began when Senator Hale failed at 5:30 yesterday afternoon to get an agreement to take a recess until 8 o'clock for the purpose of transacting regular business. Mr. Bailey sought an agreement, then for a vote on the Lorimer case. Mr. Cummins wanted coupled with the motion an agreement to vote on the tariff board bill. The two senators both proved unyielding. Even if they had come together there was no assurance that some other senator would not have objected.

Mr. Bailey announced then that there was no recourse except to enter upon an endurance test.

Speeches were made by a number of senators on the subjects of reciprocity and popular election of senators. Senator Bourne, of Oregon, bitterly assailed President Taft because of alleged use of federal patronage to coerce members of congress and finally Senator Crawford at 10:18 p. m. took the floor to speak in opposition to Senator Lorimer.

Crawford Held Floor Eight Hours.

The South Dakota statesman held the floor until 6:18 o'clock this morning, exactly eight hours. He appeared good for another eight hours, but to conserve his strength for another attack if necessary he surrendered the floor to Senator Bristow, who demonstrated during the tariffite that he was capable of speaking at length.

One advantage was gained early in the night by the Lorimer forces. Insurgent republicans had left the chamber for a conference and only the democratic opponents of Senator Lorimer were on guard. In a momentary lull Mr. Bailey, without ostentation, addressed the chair and moved that when a vote was taken it be by ayes and noes.

Senator Brandegee was in the chair. He lost no time in submitting the motion and it was adopted before there was a chance to protest. Senator Stone and Owen immediately appealed without avail.

The Trick Goes Through.

The Bailey motion had been adopted and the effect was to remove the last vestige of red tape in the parliamentary procedure that would stand in the way of a vote if the opponents of Lorimer can at any time be caught napping. The proceeding was the invention of Senator Aldrich. He used it first when Senators Lafollette and Stone were filibustering against a vote on the emergency currency law. The sharp parliamentary practice of last night was not strange to Senator Stone, therefore, which fact did not tend to smooth over his opposition to a vote on the Lorimer case. He appeared chagrined and angry at having been caught twice on the same game.

Several hours thereafter, at 5 o'clock this morning there were excellent prospects of an agreement to vote not only on the Lorimer case but the tariff board bill. All the opposing forces appeared to be ready to come to an agreement. Senator Crawford still held the fort and he was told that relief was in sight.

Stone Was Immovable.

The plan was to vote on Thursday on the Lorimer case and the tariff board bill, the vote on the first named subject to be taken at 3 p. m., and on the latter subject at 5 p. m.

Every senator agreed to the suggestion except Senator Stone and no one could move him. Still smarting because of having been outwitted earlier in the night he would not be conciliated.

After Mr. Crawford had continued for some time, Mr. Bailey at 5:55 a. m., suggested an adjournment. He referred to the fact that there was a special order upon which the senate had agreed to vote, following the reading of the journal of today's session. That order was the resolution respecting popular election of senators.

Mr. Bailey pointed out that unless the senate adjourned the session must continue as the legislative day of yesterday and it would not be possible to consider the special order under the unanimous consent agreement. He said nothing about any arrange-

SENATE KILLS DIRECT VOTE

Proposed Amendment Fails For Want of Constitutional Majority.

ONLY RECEIVED A VOTE OF 54 TO 33

Was a Foregone Conclusion That Two-Thirds Lead Would Not Show.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The senate, in accordance with previous agreement, this afternoon interrupted the Lorimer battle with a vote on the joint resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution of the United States, providing for the direct election of senators. The resolution, which would have required a two-thirds majority, was lost, receiving a vote of only 54 to 33.

It was a foregone conclusion that the resolution would not have the two-thirds majority necessary to its passage, but despite this fact the voting was followed with keen interest, both on the floor and in the crowded galleries.

How They Voted.

The vote was taken at noon and resulted as follows:

Yeas—Bailey, Beveridge, Borah, Bourne, Bradley, Briggs, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Burton, Carter, Chamberlain, Clapp, Clark, (Wyo); Clark, (Ark); Culbertson, Cullom, Cummins, Curtis, Davis, Dixon, Dupont, Frye, Gamble, Gore, Gronna, Guggenheim, Jones, Lafollette, McCumber, Martin, Nelson, Newlands, Nixon, Overman, Owen, Paynter, Perkins, Piles, Rayner, Shively, Simmons, Smith, (Maryland); Smith, (Mich); Smith, (South Carolina); Stephenson, Stone, Sutherland, Swanson, Taylor, Thornton, Warner, Watson, Young—54.

Nays—Bacon, Bankhead, Brandegee, Bulkeley, Burnham, Burrows, Crane, Depew, Dick, Dillingham, Fletcher, Flint, Foster, Gallinger, Hale, Heyburn, Johnston, Kean, Lodge, Lorimer, Money, Oliver, Page, Penrose, Percy, Richardson, Root, Scott, Smoot, Tallaferro, Tillman Warren, Wetmore; total, 33.

Senator Gallinger at first voted yea but later said it was an inadvertance and asked to be recorded in the negative.

The absentees were Senators Aldrich, Crawford, Frazier and Terrel, of Georgia. It was announced that had they been present Frazier would have voted aye, Terrel nay. There was no announcement about Senator Aldrich.

Senator Crawford, entering after the roll call was complete, said he had been delayed by a stalled street car and would have voted aye.

HAVE WRONG IMPRESSION.

Playgrounds Committee Has No Funds to Pay for Hauling Ashes.

The request of Superintendent O. N. Guldlin, of the Playgrounds association, that householders direct that ashes hauled away from their premises be dumped upon the Van Buren street playground site as filling material has caused Mr. Guldlin to be besieged by scores of telephone calls notifying him that ashes were ready for him, and in some instances there was an urgent request for him to have them taken away at once. The association cannot undertake any such task.

"Many people evidently have a wrong impression of the situation," said Mr. Guldlin today. "The association has no funds with which to pay for the hauling of ashes. We were making our appeal to popular interest in the playgrounds movement—simply urging citizens to have their ashes hauled out now while they can have the work done more cheaply than by waiting until later, and asking them to insist upon the teamster dumping them on the playground site. We will have a man on duty to direct the unloading of the ashes, but we cannot pay for the hauling, though we are prepared to supply the names of teamsters who will do the work satisfactorily. I wish The Sentinel would make this matter clear."

SETS ASIDE COMPROMISE.

Court Holds Referee's Action Was Without Jurisdiction.

Holding that the action of Referee Sol A. Wood in dismissing the bankruptcy petitions in the cases of Rufus K. Allison, the Allison Real Estate company and the Cardwell Mill and Lumber company was not within the jurisdiction of the referee, Judge Anderson, in the federal court, has revoked and set aside the order of the referee. This nullifies the agreement in compromise under which three trustees were to administer the estates, and which was submitted to the court for approval.

COMPANY TO ASK A DOUBLE TRACK

Seeks Permit to Use Spy Run Bridge for the Purpose.

TALK WITH BOARD

General Manager C. D. Emmons, of the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company will file with the board of public works a request for permission to lay double tracks across the St. Mary's river bridge at Spy Run avenue and the matter will be submitted to the city council tonight if the papers can be gotten into shape. If not it will be deferred two weeks.

At a consultation held with the board yesterday Mr. Emmons explained that his company would also like to build a new track from a point about 300 feet north of the bridge and extend one from the south so as to make a double system all the way to Robison park. He was asked to submit the request in writing.

He stated that his company will be willing in consideration of the grant to renew the floor of the bridge and keep it in good repair and to strengthen the structure with iron girders.

Mr. Emmons also agreed to interpose no objection to paving between the east track and a foot on the outside of the rail from the Rudisill bridge to the Centlivre brewery. Because the street is washing between these points the board of works has decided to pave only the west half and feared the traction company would want to pave only to the center line. This proposition will also be contained in the communication to be submitted.

Committee Will Have Meeting.

The city council committee on contracts and franchises will hold a meeting before the regular session tonight and will endeavor to formulate a report on the contracts with Trippeer and Sons for separating grades at Fairfield avenue and at Broadway.

Two members were absent at the last committee meeting and no agreement was reached. If a favorable recommendation is made the matter will go to a vote tonight.

Mr. Pinniger Is Confident.

Councilan Harry Pinniger is confident that his weights and measures ordinance will pass the council if it ever comes to a vote. He is working hard to get it before the session tonight and is prepared with more good evidence to show that it should be passed.

He is prepared for some opposition and expected it when he first formulated the measure but he says he will have plenty of support to carry it through.

NOTICE!

Tickets for the Red Letter tonight. Balcony, 50c, and 400 gallery, 25c.

Tomorrow night a number of good $1.00 seats; also balcony seats, 50c and 400 gallery at 25c.

TEEN PAID FINE; SO DID PARTNER

Syrian Picked Up on His Arrival and Mary Maloly Settled Up.

THE CASES IN COURT

Kaleel Teen, formerly engaged in business here and now located in New York, would probably have remained away from Fort Wayne if he had known that his arrival would have been a signal for his arrest on a charge of renting a house for immoral purposes. This morning he settled with the county by the payment of a fine of $25 and costs, amounting all told to $34.40.

He was indicted jointly with Mary Maloly by the last grand jury and yesterday afternoon the sheriff got word that he was here. A warrant was issued and he was picked up and required to give bond. Today he settled.

At the same time Mary Maloly settled. She said she was "broke" when she was fined Saturday and had arranged to have the docket stayed, but when the man who was to become her surety found that the bond would be a judgment against his property he backed down. Confronted with the choice between paying up or going to jail Mary got hold of $172 and squared herself.

Wants Court to Decide.

Through Heaton & Heaton the National Union, of Toledo, O., has asked the Allen circuit court to accept $3,000 insurance on the life of John M. Beard and decide to whom it belongs. The action is against Charles E. Beard, of Elkhart; Mary Preston and Jennie Hatch, of this county, and Catherine Bell, of Indianapolis.

The policy was made payable to his mother and she died before he did. Charles E. Beard and Mrs. Preston and Miss Hatch, brother, sister and niece, respectively, claimed the estate. Mrs. Bell is the mother-in-law of the deceased and says the money was transferred to her.

JUDGE MAKES HIS REPORT.

Judge Mungovan finished his report today of fines collected in the month of February and it shows fines $622, city $285, prosecutor $299, a total of $1,206. Marion Wyatt and John Dornick paid fines of $100 each and John Pietro one of $50 during the month and these helped to make a big total for February.

CITY BREVITIES.

Owing to the illness of Sheriff Reichelderfer, the meeting of Anthony Wayne chapter of the American Woman's league, will be held in the assembly room of the court house on Thursday instead of at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reichelderfer, as had been announced.

Don Kinnaird, of Chicago, is a visitor in the city for a few days.

Mrs. Mary Crinns, of the White apartments, has been called to Stanton, Mich., by a message stating that her mother, Mrs. M. E. Stevenson, who is 87 years old, is critically ill.

The residence of A. E. Hoffman at 1023 Garden street, was damaged to the extent of $5 this morning by fire, caused from the chimney. The blaze was quickly extinguished on the arrival of the fire department.

The Ladies' Aid society of the St. Paul's M. E. church will hold a business meeting and tea Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Rhair, 1519 Pontiac street. The election of officers will be held at the meeting.

Mrs. Laura Heidenreich, of 1429 Hayden street, was operated on for middle ear trouble by Dr. L. L. Gardner Monday, and is reported to be doing nicely.

Paula, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paula Knoblauch, of Woodburn, who was operated on by Dr. L. L. Gardner for mastoiditis several days ago, at Lutheran hospital, is reported to be rapidly recovering from the effects of the ordeal.

Home lodge, No. 342, F. & A. M., will have work in the Master Mason degree at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The work will be followed by a light luncheon at 6:30 o'clock.

CHIEF GAVE TWO VAGS CHEAP BED

Held Up Head of Police Department for Price of a Lodging.

CITY COURT DOCKET

Dressed all up in his street clothes and with his badge buried under his coat Chief of Police Abbott looked good for a piece of easy money last night and Edgar Conners and William Davis held him up on Harrison street for the price of a lodging. They got it along with a couple or three weeks board thrown in.

The chief told them he would give them a ride along with the lodging and this morning they went before Judge Mungovan on charges of vagrancy and were sent to jail for fifteen and twenty days respectively. The great number of beggars on the street has started a crusade and the chief is out every night waiting to be picked as an easy mark for bed money. He looks the part as the two men he got last night formed the second squad that had attempted to hold him up in two nights.

Just Borrowed the Rope.

Henry Lutz was just joking when he tried to sell William Seidel's rope. He borrowed it to help a man raise some stone or some pipe or something and was surprised that the fact that he climbed four flights of stairs when nobody was home to get it should be taken as evidence that he contemplated stealing it. The judge, however, took that view and gave the prisoner $10 and costs and ten days.

Two Drunks Before Court.

Charles Butler, under the name of Henry Busho, was fined $6 and costs for drunkenness and Charles Wist, who was not sober, was held until tomorrow morning.

A SIRIT OF SKEPTICISM.

The late Paul Morton, at a dinner in New York, praised stoutly the unexampled efficiency of America's great corporations.

"Some Americans," he said, "refuse to admit that anything American can be extraordinary or superfine. They have the spirit of the little girl whose mother was telling her about George Washington.

"The mother in her narrative praised particularly George Washington's veracity.

"'He couldn't tell a lie,' she said. 'He couldn't tell a lie.'

"'What was the matter wiv him, mamma?' said the little girl. 'Couldn't he talk?'"

A LESSON IN COURTESY.

Booker T. Washington, the noted educator, said of George Washington in a recent address in Tuskegee:

"Washington, as he drove in his coach one day, was saluted by an aged colored man, who lifted his tattered cap, whereupon Washington acknowledged the salute by lifting his own hat in turn.

"His companions remonstrated. Why did the great George Washington bow to a ragged black? But Washington said in his grave and stately way:

"'Do you think, my friends, that I can let myself be outdone in courtesy by a poor and ignorant old negro?'"

NOW RESTING EASILY.

Mrs. E. H. Kirkland Improving After Painful Injury in Fall.

Mrs. E. H. Kirkland, who suffered a fracture of the right knee cap in a fall down the stairway leading to the dressing rooms at the Majestic theater Monday evening, was reported to be resting easily at St. Joseph's hospital at noon today, and attending physicians are hopeful of her complete recovery without permanent disablement.

Mrs. Kirkland, who is a vocalist of unusual ability, was cast for one of the principal roles of "The Red Letter," the John B. Archer comic opera produced by a Fort Wayne company, and the accident occurred but an hour before the time for the curtain on the first performance. Mrs. Kirkland tripped as she was descending to her dressing room, and the injury was so severe that it was necessary to remove the injured woman to the hospital, where Dr. C. C. F. Nieschang wired the fractured bone together and placed the knee in a plaster cast. Mrs. Kirkland is the wife of E. H. Kirkland, general freight agent of the Pennsylvania lines, and has been prominent in Fort Wayne social and musical circles. Her role in the opera was sung by Miss Carina Banning, who was hurriedly taken from the chorus and pressed into service.

WOMEN VOTING IN ELECTION IN WHICH MAYOR HIRAM C. GILL WAS RECALLED AND GEORGE W. DILLING, ELECTED.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 24.—In turning Mayor Hiram C. Gill out of office at the special election on February 7 and placing in the executive chair George W. Dilling, of the Public Welfare league, the woman suffragists of this city believe that they have shown the high value of equal suffrage and the ability of their sex to grasp governmental problems and to rid a municipality of corrupt or inefficient officials without hesitation.

It is conceded that women's votes have revolutionized politics in Seattle at the first test of equal suffrage in this state. This is remarked on every side and the Seattle woman voter is now an important personage politically. The men politicians are taking off their hats to her in every way.

The recent contest was the hottest politically, in Seattle for many years. Mayor Gill had a strong following. He had been elected last March by a plurality of 3,500 votes, and he appeared to be secure in his office until he took a cruise in Alaskan waters about two months ag[illegible]

WAS A RETIRED BUSINESS MAN

John H. Rahe, Long in Furniture Trade Here, Passes Away.

THE OTHER DEATHS

John H. Rahe, pioneer resident and long engaged in the furniture trade in Fort Wayne, died at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the family residence, 1207 Broadway, at the age of 75 years. Mr. Rahe had been in failing health since last September, when he contracted a severe cold, but had only been confined to his bed since last Friday.

The deceased was born in Germany and came to the United States at the age of 18, locating directly in Fort Wayne, which has been his home since that time. About twenty-five years ago Mr. Rahe embarked in the furniture business at 620 Clinton street, remaining in trade until four years ago, when he sold out and retired. Mr. Rahe was a highly respected citizen and quite well to do, owning a number of properties about the city.

He was united in marriage in 1859 to Miss Louise Balse, of this city, the ceremony being solemnized in St. Paul's Lutheran church. Surviving relatives include the widow, one son, F. H. Rahe, of Detroit; a granddaughter, Miss May Rahe, who made her home with the grandfather; a brother, August Rahe, who is a grocer on Gay street, and a sister, Mrs. Dudenhoefer, residing in Germany. The deceased was a member of Emanuel Lutheran church.

Mr. Rahe, who was familiarly known as Henry Rahe, learned the cabinetmaking trade in the pioneer cabinet shop of Louis Peltier, which years ago was located on Calhoun street, occupying the present site of the Rurode dry goods establishment. Later, before embarking in business upon his own account, Mr. Rahe was employed by John M. Miller, in the days when practically all the furniture sold was the product of the local shop instead of the big furniture factory.

SAHDE.

Miss Emma Sahde, aged 20 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sahde, 2038 Gay street, died at 6:45 o'clock Monday evening at the Lutheran hospital, after an illness of one week, in the course of which she submitted to a surgical operation.

Miss Sahde was a member of Zion Lutheran church and is survived by her parents, a sister, Mrs. Peter Perrey, and three brothers—Carl, Herman and Martin Sahde, all of this city.

Funeral services Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence and at 2:30 from Zion Lutheran church, Rev. C. H. Luehr officiating.

SWAYZE.

Israel S. Swayze, 72 years of age, residing at 421 High street, died at 10:45 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Lutheran hospital from cancer. Mr. Swayze was a retired gardener, unmarried and came to Fort Wayne from Canada two years ago.

Funeral services Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock from the residence of a nephew, A. J. Swayze, 415 High street. The remains will be taken to Canada for interment.

M'TIGH.

Peter McTigh, a laborer, about 45 years of age, died at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Rochus' hospital, from tuberculosis.

The deceased was born at Hadley, a few miles west of this city, and was unmarried. He is survived by a sister.

The remains will be removed to the home of a sister, Mrs. Margaret Smith, 1714 West Main street. Funeral later from the Cathedral; interment at Arcola.

MORGAN.

Madeline M. L. Morgan, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Morgan, 2620 Force street, died at 3:50 o'clock Tuesday morning at the age of 2 years, 6 months and 7 days. The child was one of twins, and is survived by the parents and two brothers.

THE SEVEN BIBLES.

Mohammed in his capacity as legislator for the Arabs made a distinction in treating of the non-Islamic world between those peoples who had a scripture and those who had not. Among the former he included the Jews, the Christians and, strangely enough, the Sabaeans, whose holy writings have since disappeared.

It should be a curious problem for modern Mohammedan authorities to decide as to which peoples may be said to have what corresponds to a Bible. Would they include the Chinese, with their books of Kings, Shi-King, Li-King, and the rest? Would the Brahmins, with their Vedas, be included? Or the Buddhists, with their Tripitaka?

A still further problem would be raised by a case like the Eddas, which had the force of a Bible among the early Norsemen, but have since lost their force. Here would be the case of a Bible without a people rather than of a people without a Bible. On any method of enumeration, however, Jews would receive the benefit of the Mohammedan law with their Bible, which is acknowledged as authoritative even by the Koran.—American Hebrew.

ment for votes on any of the pending questions.

Bailey Gets Mad.

"When am I to have opportunity to conclude my remarks?" asked Mr. Crawford. This question angered Mr. Bailey.

Something was whispered to Mr. Crawford about negotiations looking to a settlement of the contest. Mr. Crawford replied rather testily that he had had no part in the negotiations as he had been confined to the floor and knew nothing of what was transpiring. That ended for a long period any attempt to reach a compromise.

At 7:40 Mr. Bailey tried to have the senate recess until 11:30 o'clock. He said that in time he thought it would be possible to reach some agreement for a vote and to determine if some arrangement could be made so that an extraordinary session would not be absolutely necessary.

There followed a great deal of discussion during which Mr. Chamberlain expressed the opinion that the night's filibuster had been "child's play," and that the senators were shirking their duty as judges of the qualifications of a member under charges and as a member of the highest deliberative body in respect to legislation.

Texan Has Enough Filibustering.

Responding, Mr. Bailey said that after what he had witnessed during the night he thought it would be a long time before he engaged in another filibuster.

At this point Senator Stone stated that he would not object to a recess as proposed, but that he felt assured the senators would come back at the appointed hour to find that no progress had been made.

Senator Chamberlain renewed his appeal for an immediate vote on the Lorimer resolution, that to be followed by a vote on the tariff board bill.

Senator Bailey here pressed his request for a recess and Senator Brandegee in the chair, hearing no objection to the request, thereupon declared the recess in effect at 8:09 o'clock.

Immediately there was a scramble for automobiles and carriages and the senate chamber and lobbies soon were deserted.

When the senate convened at 11 o'clock it was stated that all efforts to effect a compromise had failed. The battle over the resolution affecting Senator Lorimer's seat was exactly where it stood when the senate recessed at 8:09 a. m., after its all night session—where it stood for that matter yesterday morning.

Immediately after reconvening Senator Bristow, of Kansas, rose to resume his speech against Lorimer. He at once gave way to Senator Money, the democratic caucus leader, who stated that the responsibility for the situation lay with the republicans. Not even the president, he said, by threats of an extra session or otherwise, could coerce the senate.

Glad to Have a Vote.

Senator Money said he had been informed that the president now took the position that he would not submit to any vote on the reciprocity prearranged with a view of killing it. Mr. Money said he had no such feeling. He would be glad of a vote, whatever its result.

Senator Money concluded with an appeal for abandonment of the filibuster and the resumption of public business. He took occasion, however, to express his unyielding opposition to the permanent tariff board bill.

Senator Newlands concurred in Mr. Money's views about the filibuster, but expressed his desire to have the tariff board bill passed.

At 11:20 the senate adjourned until 11:50 a. m., to close the "legislative day" of yesterday and provide for the vote on the direct election of senators, set by agreement to follow the reading of the journal today.

OPTION BATTLE IN THIRTEEN COUNTIES

At the last option election held here the city went "wet" by a majority of 325 votes, but the general opinion is that the anti-saloon faction will be able to overcome that majority in today's election. The results will be very close and as both sides are quite confident of victory the outcome cannot be truly predicted. Up until noon a large vote was polled.

QUIET AT ROME CITY.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Rome City, Ind., Feb. 28.—Very little excitement is noticed in this town on account of the option election being held here and at the other voting places in Orange township. It is reported that nearly all the votes have been cast and the polls are very quiet since noon. The "drys" are confident of winning, but look for oly a small majority.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

PYTHIANS OF 7TH DISTRICT TO MEET

Marion Plans Huge Celebration—1,000 Knights to March in Gorgeous Pageant.

Marion, Ind., Feb. 28.—What is expected to be the biggest event in the annals of local Pythianism will be the seventh district meeting to be held in Marion tomorrow. The district is composed of the counties of Grant, Wabash, Miami and Howard. The delegations from Wabash, Peru and Kokomo will go in special cars and will remain until the "last nail has been driven." All of the lodges in Grant county will send large representations, and, it is estimated, at least 800 visiting Knights of Pythias will be in Marion for the meeting. There are at least 750 Knights who live in Marion.

The seventh district is perhaps the most important in the state and makes up a full share of the 70,000 Knights of Pythians in Indiana. Grant lodge is the second in point of membership in the domain of Indiana and the members have spared nothing to establish it beyond any doubt that they lead in point of hospitality.

Merchants of the city have been urged to decorate their places of business and the K. of P. colors, blue, yellow and red, promise to be highly conspicuous.

The most spectacular feature of the meeting will be the grand Pythian parade at 7 o'clock at night. The procession, headed by the Second regiment band, will move on the principal downtown streets and more than 1,000 Knights of Pythias are expected to march.

3,462 FUNERALS.

Portland, Ind., Feb. 28.—Rev. Fred Stovenour, of this city, has probably officiated at more funerals than any other living minister in this section of Indiana, he having performed the last sad rite at the bier of 3,462 persons during his long years in the ministry. In this branch of the ministry he has not only officiated at funerals in this county, but has been called to various places in neighboring counties and western Ohio.

YOUNG LADIES PLAN CAMPAIGN

Hope to Secure $15,000 to Build Y. W. C. A. Home—State Secretary to Assist.

Elkhart, Ind., Feb. 28.—The "Fifteen Thousand Dollar" campaign soon will be on and the citizens, it is confidently hoped by those most familiar with the benefits to be derived, will rally to its support.

A city wide campaign in which every man, woman and child in the city of Elkhart will be given an opportunity to contribute toward the needed fund is announced today by the Young Woman's Christian association.

In the few years that this work has been organized in Elkhart it has doubled and redoubled in popularity. The public has not been asked to help before, but now for the first time Elkhart is to have the opportunity of providing aid for a civic institution for its girls and women.

Building Campaign to Open.

The $15,000 Y. W. C. A. building campaign will be begun Sunday, March 19, which will be Association Sunday in every church in the city. Then for the six days following an active canvass of the entire city will be conducted and the association feels confident that the amount asked for will be raised.

This sum of money, small when compared with the amounts which other cities have given, will accomplish many things. Here are the principal uses to which the fund will be devoted.

The balance due on the Marion street property must be paid. This is $6,500. The interest for one year amounts to $390, and paving assessment $210. In addition the association needs $2,400 for the current expenses of one year, and, most of all, $5,500 with which to build and equip a dining room, kitchen and gymnasium.

Miss E. Jean Batty, the state secretary, will arrive in the city March 10 or 12 and will remain during the campaign. The headquarters for the work will be the association home, 319 Marion street. The campaign workers will meet Monday, March 20, for organization and will report progress at noon every day. It is probable that some sort of an indicator will be placed in the business portion of the city on which the progress can be marked daily and hourly.

The work will require a man's committee of twenty-five members, a woman's committee of fifty members, a young woman's committee of 100 members and neighborhood and children's committees.

SHOT BY COMPANION.

Boys Did Not Know Gun Was Loaded —One Dead as Result.

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 28.—Hugh Thomas, the fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo J. Thomas, Corunna, met with a very tragic death Sunday morning about eight o'clock in the telephone exchange at that place, when he was accidentally shot with a thirty-eight calibre revolver by his companion, Harry Dellenbaugh, and died from the fatal shot in twenty minutes.

In the absence of Clyde Wilsey, manager of the exchange, who had gone to Elkhart, the ambitious little fellow performed the duties at the telephone board and lest he get lonesome during the still hours of the night, he had Harry Dellenbaugh and Russell McDonald, his companions, keep him company. Sunday morning the boys found two double action revolvers which are kept in the exchange and after they had supposedly removed the cartridges, began pointing the muzzles of the guns at each other within close range and snapping the triggers.

It was presumed that all of the cartridges had been extracted and that there was no danger, but the revolver held by Dellenbaugh still contained one cartridge, and as he pointed the piece toward Thomas' head and pulled the trigger, an explosion followed, the bullet entering the boy's head back of the left ear at the base of the brain, glancing upward.

The Thomas boy staggered and fell to the floor and his two companions were overcome with terror at the sad ending of a night spent in joyous companionship together. The Thomas home is but a short distance from the store and his mother was the first summoned, and she hastened to the store but a few minutes before the boy breathed his last. Mr. Thomas was not in the house and death had ended the boy's suffering before his arrival.

Drs. Allen and Brown were summoned at once, and rendered medical and surgical aid, but the bullet had struck a vital spot and death soon followed. The young man never regained consciousness after he was shot.

ENTERS PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

Young Man Goes to Washington to Study for West Point.

Columbia City, Ind., Feb. 28.—Ray Harrison, son of Maj. Jos. S. Harrison, left Monday afternoon for Washington, D. C., where he will enter Columbia Preparatory college to study for another examination for admission to the United States military academy at West Point, N. Y. He will remain at Washington until May.

Young Harrison recently took an examination for admission to West Point, but failed in mathematics, which deficiency he will work to make up at Columbia academy. He received his appointment from Representative Cline and, because his alternate did not appear for examination, made it possible for him to get another trial at the second examination to be held May 2. The fact that he has already taken one examination and passed a good physical test and made good marks in all the other subjects, gives him a good chance for the regular appointment when it is made in May.

BOYS CONFESS.

Brothers Admit They Robbed Grocery —Not Under Arrest.

Portland, Ind., Feb. 28.—Don and Ray Burkett, two well known young lads of this city, both members of the Portland Juvenile band and holding positions as carriers with the City News stand, were taken in charge late Friday night by Marshal Elias Flauding and Policemen Tieben and Hanlin, on the charge of burglarizing the Star grocery, on North Meridian street, on the night of February 3rd.

The two boys were not placed under arrest but when taken in custody they confessed that they were guilty of the crime charged against them. Both were taken to the Star grocery where they again told of the manner in which they had entered the place, and in the presence of H. R. Crebb, the proprietor, gave an account of the robbery.

HUSBAND ASSAULTED HER.

Woman Sues for Divorce—Alleges Drunkenness and Brutality.

Defiance, Ohio, Feb. 28.—Alleging drunkenness and brutality on the part of her husband Mrs. Katherine Greiner has filed a petition in the probate court for a divorce from Jacob Greiner. They were married in Williamsburg, N. Y., in 1883, and have eight children living, ranging in age from 24 to 5. The petition recites that on number of occasions, when intoxicated, her husband had assaulted her, broken up the furniture, and the last offense of this kind was committed on the 26th of this month. She asks reasonable alimony, and that her husband be restrained from disposing of a lot in South Defiance, purchased by her, but the title of which is in their name jointly.

IN SERIOUS PLIGHT.

Victims of Accident Must Take Nourishment Through Straw.

Wabash, Ind., Feb. 28.—Theodore Schlemmer, the fourteen-year-old son of Edward Schlemmer, residing on Grant street, is in a serious condition and is unable to take any nourishment except through a straw as the result of muscular rheumatism caused by injuries received some time ago at the Pioneer Hat works.

Young Schlemmer was employed in the picking room of that plant when his arm became caught in one of the picking machines and was badly mangled. The wounds healed fairly well until the last few days, when the muscles became set and rigid with the result that the lad can hardly move any portion of his body.

CLASS OF 14.

Elks Hold Afternoon Session and Initiate Large Class.

Defiance, Ohio, Feb. 28.—Defiance Lodge of Elks initiated a class of fourteen candidates from Defiance, Paulding, Sherwood, Continental and Stryker Tuesday afternoon. The work began at 3 o'clock, and at 7 o'clock a fine banquet will be served. An afternoon meeting is a new departure for the Elks, and it is believed to have many advantages.

Preparations are being made for the reception of another large class on the 14th of April. At that time it is expected Dwight B. Edwards, of Marysville, district deputy, will make his annual inspection.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Fort Wayne People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Fort Wayne.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Swaidner, 2120 S. Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, Ind., says: "Kidney trouble caused me much suffering for at least four years and I have also had persistent pains across my back. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me prompt and lasting relief and consequently, I do not hesitate to recommend them." Statement given in December, 1908.

THE CURE LASTED.

On July 1, 1910, Mrs. Swaidner said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected in my case has been permanent. It gives me pleasure to re-indorse this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NEW PICKLE FACTORY.

Huntington, Ind., Feb. 28.—That the tract of land offered by the Erie railroad along their right of way will probably be selected as a site for the branch factory which the Evanston Pickle Preserving company will locate here was the statement made by S. M. Diggee, a member of the company, on his departure from the city yesterday morning. Vats and machinery will be shipped here April 1.

$20 BOUNTY ON "TIGERS."

Auburn, Ind., Feb. 28.—The W. C. T. U. has voted $20 to be given to any person who will furnish evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone engaged in running a blind tiger. The Union hears reports that there are such in town and makes this offer hoping that it will have a tendency of overcoming some of the difficulty of obtaining evidence.

CHANCE FOR WATERWAYS.

The general policy of inland waterway development will have improved status in the next congress. The railway influence and the reactionary sentiment that so strongly operated against waterways will count for much less than they have and it will be possible to procure at least an examination of projects and a consideration of enterprises upon some plea of the public good. It has been a hard task to get even a bit of supercilious toleration at the hands of the elements that have been in control of congress for almost a score of years. Anything that has appeared to offer interferance with the high and mighty way of the railroads did not come well-recommended to congress. The Michigan and Erie barge canal project was one of that description of public projects. After several years of agitation and no end of hard work and frequent visits to Washington by the devoted little band of resolute men who have promoted the enterprise there is something better than a mere prospect that the project will be looked into, its feasibility determined, possible routes surveyed and a report made upon it. This proposed canal will be the most vital link in all interior waterway development in this country and its importance cannot be overestimated because the farther limit of its importance cannot be conceived. Yet it has been like inviting an apprropriation of public money to aid a hostile power to get congressional committees to give even a respectful hearing, not to speak of an intelligent, sympathetic and public-spirited interest in a proposal that could mean nothing but the public good. The hope is that the day of reactionary hostility is past and that the merits of interior waterway projects may command respectful attention and not be treated like a proposal to commit treason.

CONSTITUTION COMING ON.

The bill providing for submission to the voters a new constitution has been passed by the Indiana senate. There does not at present appear any reason to question the prospect that it will go through the full course and that the constitution will be submitted. All the democrats in the senate supported the governor's plan save Mr. Powers, of Steuben county, who appears to have separated himself with great reluctance but deep conscientiousness from his colleagues on this question. The republicans of the senate voted solidly against it and joined in a protest which becomes a part of the journal of the proceedings. The question is raised that the means taken to procure a new constitution is contrary to the provisions made in the present organic law for such steps. Good lawyers have subscribed to this opion, but it is to be noted that almost without exception they are republican lawyers. Governor Marshall and the legislators who have been close to him in the matter of a new constitution also are good lawyers and they have counseled with the most capable legal minds in Indiana and upon such advice as they got are proceeding. The criticism of the project is all partissan and the opinions given against it seem mainly to be political rather than legal. The people of Indiana will have opportunity to decide what they think of it. It is up to them or at any rate will be and there will be ample time for them to study the new constitution, note in what it is unlike the present instrument, weigh its good and its bad and to finally determine whether or no they want it.

The esteemed New York American in a dynamic editorial speaks of the "sitting member from Illinois" in the United States senate as "George" Lorimer. Expect to see George Horton Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, promptly rise to a question of personal privilege to demand why a gentleman who, though himself formerly from Chicago and the stockyards region, never has done anything worse than tolerate a little muckraking and stand for a few too many of Bob Chamber's stories should so be confused and confounded with the blonde-boss of Packingtown. There is but one Bill Lorimer; but also there is but one George. And he isn't the one.

Canadian reciprocity is the nearest realization of the principle of the square deal in trade that James G. Blanc enunciated and stood for. It is in a measure a redemption of oft-repeated and as often broken promises of the republican party in its platforms. It is an attempt to make good one of the tariff promises of the platform upon which Mr. Taft was elected. But it meddles with the tariff and that is enough for a standpat.

Begins to look as though not unreasonable to suspect the delay in getting a saloon restriction measure through the legislature has much method in it. Perhaps it is desired to hold off until the last possible moment to see what "dry" territory is going to do under the new system of option. If Indiana is going to start right in to vote "dry" where it already is "dry" and the new option unit is not going to avail to deprive the anti-saloon forces of the advantages supposed to be held by voting the country against the cities and towns, perhaps it will be felt that less reason exists for more rigorous control of the saloon business. The Proctor law goes back to the senate quite unlike what its author had in mind as a rational system of legal control of saloons and as a bill bearing the evidences of violent treatment. There remains but little time in which to get an agreement.

If William Lorimer keeps his seat he will owe a lot to Julius Caesar Burrows, who is soon going private citizening back to Kalamazoo, and to Joseph Weldn Bailey, who embraces in his person the finest lot of raw material for a private citizen that can be found in the whole doggoned state of Texas. And Texas is some state. But as to Burrows, he isn't going to be in a very warm situation to get paid back, whereas the Texan may be able to get what's comin' to him within the next two years.

The opening round of the renewed saloon battle in Indiana is not a pleasant augury for the chief advocates of the proposition that the county option law was not enough like home rule to comport well with the spirit of our institutions. Today will witness a more general engagement and more signal results one way or the other.

Congress has but four days of existence remaining and the senate is making all the closing history of the session. With a feud with the white house and a magnificent filibuster over Billie Lorimer there is in progress a great exposition of the game of statesmanship.

The democrats in the legislature are going to give a fine exhibition of how to do it during the five days that remain of the session, after a fifty-five-day exhibition of how not to do it.

Australia is solving the problem of an invasion by the American beef trust in a very practical way. There isn't going to be any invasion.

THE PORK-AND-BEAN CURE.

(Pittsburg Gazette-Times.)

Medical science is truly marching forward with giant strides. From Rutland, Mass., comes the news of a cure for consumption that will revolutionize the present methods of dealing with that disease. Superintendent Bartlett, of the state sanitarium for consumptives, is the originator of this new cure, which is nothing more nor less than a diet of pork and beans. Mr. Bartlett had heard that Sir Hiram Maxim had recommended this dietary, and that it had helped some patients in England. So, proudly realizing that "we've got the best pork and beans in the country," Mr. Bartlett decided to try the cure for two weeks on his patients. If there is any virtue in the diet, his name will go down to posterity along with those of Koch and Pasteur as the pioneer of a new therapeutic theory, the father of the pork-and-beans cure for consumption.

One great merit the remedy certainly possesses—it cannot do any great harm. There is also no doubt that it has benefited a great many people who were not consumptives. It is also pleasant to take. The cost of the pork is the one disadvantage, but this is counterbalanced by the comparative inexpensiveness of the luscious bean. Therefore the remedy seems to promise to become popular—especially popular in Chicago and Boston where large sanitariums ought to be established. Perhaps the Harvard Medical school and some Chicago institution could exchange professors to discuss the inevitable problem: Do the medicinal virtues reside in the pork or in the beans?

The tubercle bacillus is doomed. If he has not been frozen out by the open-air treatment of consumption, he will succumb to the new restaurant cure. Two weeks of steady addiction to the invigorating diet should enable any man to overcome a regiment of bacilli. Enough pork and beans will snatch a victim from the grave's very jaws. The cure seems destined to become very popular.

THE CANAL PROJECT.

(South Bend Tribune.)

The conferees of the rivers and harbors bill have included in the measure a provision for surveys of the two proposed routes for the Erie-Michigan canal. These proposed routes are from Toledo to Michigan City by way of Fort Wayne and South Bend and from Toledo to Indiana Harbor by way of Fort Wayne and Rochester. While from the South Bend point of view it naturally seems the northern route must in the end prove favorable this will be finally demonstrated in the survey which is now practically certain.

The situation has reached a point where no possible excuse can be put forth for little interest. There has even been a lamentable lack of concern in the plan in South Bend, a situation only to be contrasted with that in Fort Wayne. The fact that the initial step by the government is practically assured is one which cannot be overlooked or belittled. It means that the point where the canal proposal seemed a vain dream, even in so far as getting the government approval, has been passed.

Now is the time for South Bend to be doing and make up in enthusiasm what has been lost by procrastination.

A TERRIBLE FATE.

(New York Herald.)

The sending of Edward P. Myllus to prison for distributing copies of a Paris paper that libelled King George may seem severe punishment to those familiar with our own libel laws, but the prisoner has met with a worse fate. His portrait has been kept out of newspapers, and by the time his sentence has expired his name will have passed into oblivion.

No lecture plaform awaits him on his release: no engagement in music hall or cheap museum: not even an invitation to sit on the platform at a meeting of the downtrodden.

It is a pity that this severe and salutary form of punishment has no place in our penal code. It is impossible to estimate the number of crimes that are committed in the hope of self-advertisement. The murderer consoles his last hours with the thought that the papers will devote columns to his taking off. The bad actor, the pushing society climber, the crank philosopher, the poet striking a tuneless lyre are all working to get their portraits in the papers.

The best way to reform the world is to cut off the supply of undeserved publicity.

RESTRICTIVE BILL PASSES IN HOUSE

Proctor's Saloon Regulation Measure Causes Fine Row.

COME NEAR TO BLOWS

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—After a bitter wrangle in the house yesterday, during which members almost came to blows, the Proctor regulative and restrictive liquor measure, with thirty-six amendments, making it altogether different from the bill which went through the senate, passed the lower branch. The vote was 55 to 40.

During the roll call the lie was passed in a hot debate between Representative Eschbach, minority floor leader, and Representative Keegan, democrat, of Indianapolis, and the two men, each backed by others, came near clashing on the floor.

The bill now will go back to the senate. Senator Proctor, author of the mensure, has his doubts, he says, as to its constitutionality, and he does not believe a majority of the senate will concur in the house amendments. It seems likely that a conference committee will have to take charge and frame a measure satisfactory to both branches.

Representative Keegan, in explaining his vote for the bill, declared that there was "no hypocracy" about his attitude, and asserted that there were "gentlemen on the other side who feed all night on highballs and come in here the next morning and preach temperance."

"Mr. Speaker," shouted Eschbach, jumping to his feet, "a question of personal privilege."

The point was granted and Eschbach turned savagely upon Keegan.

"Do you refer to the gentleman from Kosclusko?" he demanded, referring to himself.

"If it fits, I do," said Keegan hotly.

"If you refer to me," said Eschbach, leaning over the desk nearest him and pointing a warning finger at Keegan, "you tell an absolute falsehood."

"I refer to anybody it fits," said Keegan.

"I demand," said Representative Bedgood, leaping from his seat and advancing toward Keegan, "that the gentleman name the man."

Clash is Imminent.

Eschbach also was advancing toward Keekan, shaking his fist.

"Name the man!" he shouted. "Name the man!" Representatives Maddox, Faris, Berry, Wasmuth and other republicans were scrambling out of their seats and advancing toward Representative Seidensticker, Galbraith and other democrats were rallying behind Keegan. Representative Maddox ran up the aisle from his seat in the rear of the chamber.

"Name the man!" he shouted in chorus with practically every man on the minority side of the chamber.

Speaker Veneman pounded with his gavel and vainly endeavored to restore order. The chamber fairly roared with the demand that Keegan "name the man" or withdraw his statement. Keegan ignored the demands, standing by his desk smiling, but pale. Speaker Veneman finally made himself heard.

"The gentleman from Marion," said the speaker, "will confine his remarks to his vote and shall not be personal in his remarks."

The minority members, incensed but silenced, sought their seats. A short time later Representative Maddox, in explaining his vote, alluded to the incident.

"Shame on the man," said he, "who charges a church man with drinking high balls. If the gentleman from Marion had said that to me he and I would have come together instantly."

Party Lines Divide.

There was some shifting from party lines during the roll call. Representatives Clore, Coble, Cravens, Hammond, McCabe, McGinnis and Merriman, democrats, voted with the republicans against the bill and Representatives Clark, Greiger, Grimmer and Van Horne, republicans, voted with the democrats.

BISHOP'S LETTER REGARDING LENT

The Regulations for the Lenten Season in the Diocese of Fort Wayne

BEGINS WEDNESDAY

Rt. Rev. Herman Joseph Alerding, the bishop of Fort Wayne, has issued his annual letter regarding the regulations for the Lenten season, which begins Wednesday of this week. It was read in all the Catholic churches of the diocese last Sunday and is as follows:

In accordance with faculties granted by the Holy See, the following are the regulations for Lent for the diocese of Fort Wayne:

1. All the faithful, over twenty-one and under sixty years of age, are, unless legitimately dispensed, bound to observe the fast of Lent.

2. They are to take only one full meal a day, except Sundays.

3. The full meal allowed on fast days should be taken about noon. But, if for any good reason, the principal meal cannot be taken at noon, it is permitted to take the collation at noon, and to put off the full meal till evening.

4. Both fish and flesh are not to be used at the same time, not even on Sundays.

5. A refreshment, commonly called a collation, is allowed in the evening. No general rule as to the quantity of food permitted at this time is or can be made; but the practice of the most regular Christians is never to let it exceed one-fourth of an ordinary meal.

6. On account of the existence of such custom the church tolerates the use of bread, butter, eggs, cheese, milk and all kinds of fruit, salads, vegetables and fish at a collation.

7. For the same reason it is permitted to take in the morning some warm liquid as tea, coffee, or thin chocolate, with a little milk and a cracker, or a small piece of bread.

8. Necessity and custom have authorized the use of lard instead of butter in preparing fish, vegetables, etc.

9. By dispensation the use of flesh meats is allowed at any time on Sundays, and once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, excepting the second and last Saturdays of Lent.

10. The following are exempt from the obligation of fasting: Those under twenty-one and those over sixty years of age, the sick, pregnant and nursing women, those who are obliged to labor hard, and all those who, through weakness cannot fast without injury to their health.

11. Persons dispensed from the obligation of fasting are not bound by the restriction of using meat at only one meal on days on which its use is granted by dispensation.

12. By virtue of an indult of the Holy See, granted February 25, 1905, for ten years, we permit workingmen, and their families, the use of flesh meat once a day—and more than once a day in the case of those who are dispensed from fasting—on all the fast days and days of abstinence throughout the year, with the exception of all Fridays, Ash Wednesday, Wednesday and Saturday of holy week and the eve of Christmas. Those who avail themselves of this dispensation, are not allowed to eat fish and flesh at the same meal, and they are exhorted to perform some other act of mortification, such as reciting additional prayers, (the Rosary, for example), abstaining from intoxicating drinks, from the use of tobacco, foregoing pleasures, amusements, etc.

We recommend that the faithful, if at all possible, observe the rigorous abstinence at least on good Friday.

The Paschal time, during which every practical Catholic is obliged to confess his sins and receive holy communion, extends from the first Sunday in Lent, March 5, to Trinity Sunday, June 4, both inclusive.

The annual collection for the Indian and negro missions is to be taken up on the first Sunday in Lent. A plenary indulgence is granted by the holy father to all that contribute, if they receive worthily the sacraments of Penance and the Blessed Eucharist on the Sunday on which the collection is made, and offer prayers according to his attention.

THE LOCKED-UP PARDON.

In the Isle of Man I saw an old, gray, ruined tower, covered with ivy. There was a remarkable history connected with the spot. In that tower was formerly hanged one of the best governors the island ever possessed. He had been accused of treachery to the king during the time of the civil wars, and had received sentence of death. Intercession was made on his behalf and a pardon was sent, but that fell into the hands of his bitter enemy, who kept it locked up and the governor was hanged. His name is still honored by the many and you may often hear a pathetic ballad sung to his memory, to the music of the spinning-wheel.

We must feel horror struck at the fearful turpitude of that man who, having the pardon for his fellow creature in his possession, could keep it back and let him die the death of a traitor. But let us restrain our indignation till we ask ourselves whether God might not point His finger to most of us and say: "Thou art the man. Thou hast a pardon in thy hands to save thy fellow creature, not from temporal, but from eternal death. Thou hast a pardon suited to all, designated for all. Thou hast enjoyed it thyself, but hast thou not kept it back from thy brother, instead of sending it to the ends of the earth?"—Hugh Stowell.

HYPER-CRITICISM.

The late Frank Worthing, the well-known actor, was the subject of a recent discussion at the Pen and Pencil club, in Philadelphia. A dramatic critic said:

"Worthing, though a superb actor, hated adverse criticism—hyper-criticism he always called it. To some adverse criticism of mine he retorted, one winter night at the Majestic, with a George Washington story.

"He said I reminded him in my critical remarks of a Scot named Saunders.

"'Saunders,' said an American, 'did you ever read the history of America?'

"'Aweel, I canna say I hev,' Saunders replied.

"'Then I'll lend you the book,' said the American. 'I'd like you to read about George Washington.'

"'What about him?' Saunders inquired coldly.

"'George Washington,' said the American, 'was celebrated in history as the boy who could not tell a lie.'

"'Could he no'?' said Saunders. 'Man, there's no muckle to boast aboot in that. He couldna lie, ye say? Noo we Scots hae a higher standerd o' veracity. We can lie, but we won't.'"

ON RECORD IN NINE COUNTIES

Rush to File Deeds and Mortgages for Traction Transfer.

DONE IN SINGLE DAY

Beginning at 7:45 o'clock this morning with the arrival of Arthur H. Mohr from New York, bearing certified copies of the deeds and the mortgage under which the property of the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company is transferred to the new Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, the documents were rushed into nine counties for record before the close of the day.

This evening certificates of record from each of the counties will be forwarded to New York, where the original documents were executed Monday, and tomorrow the new organization will take over the big traction property. It was necessary to get the deeds and the mortgage on record in each county through which the interurban line runs before the close of business today, and some quick work was necessary.

Mr. Mohr filed the documents in the office of Recorder Kelley in this city. General Manager Emmons hurried to Bluffton with a duplicate set for record in Wells county, and other attaches of the company climbed aboard cars which carried them into Whitley, Huntington, Wabash, Miami, Cass, Carroll and Tippecanoe counties on a similar mission. The mortgage is for $15,000,000 and is issued in favor of the United States Mortgage and Trust company, of New York, as trustee.

SOCIETY

About fifty ladies enjoyed a game of bridge as guests of Mrs. Reuben S. Patterson and Mrs. Frank Tolan, at the home of Mrs. Tolan, in Masterson avenue, this afternoon. The rooms were decorated with baskets of blooming plants, of which pink hyacinths and cyclamens formed the greater part and a hamper of ferns and pink hyacinths stood on the mantel in one room and one of ferns only in another. Smilax wreathed the chandeliers. Dainty tally cards were mementoes of the game. Miss Martha Tolan, Miss Helen Caldwell and Miss Esther Freese were young girls who lent assistance in several ways and in the rooms mingling with other guests before the game were Mrs. Will Freese, Mrs. Carl Yaple and Mrs. Will Vogel. The supper was served at small tables and was a bountiful and tempting repast. Mrs. Tolan and Mrs. Patterson departed from the usual custom of giving prizes for highest scores and instead presented each guest at both of the parties with individual half-pound boxes of fine candies. Honor guests at both parties were Mrs. George Bruner, of Kokomo; Mrs. John Hoadley and Mrs. Miller English, of Van Wert, Ohio.

Mr. McKay is a traveling salesman for Bursley & Co. The engagement was announced last evening to a very few friends who gathered at the Peters home after the opera. There were beautiful decorations in the dining-room which had been used at a bridge party which Miss Peters and Miss Helen Peters had given in the afternoon and which made a fitting surrounding for Miss Peters and Mr. McKay as they received the felicitations of the family and guests.

THE PEPLUM COAT.

FROM FRANKLIN SIMON & CO.

It is a long time since the coat with a peplum or circular section over the hip was the fashion. This style has crept back to favor, as some of the advanced Parisian models reveal, though as yet the peplum has not appeared in ready made garments. The suit pictured is of crow's blue permo—the very dark blue that is almost black in the shadows, and as the braiding is done with fine black soutache. The sailor collar on the coat, in conjunction with the fitted peplum, make this spring suit very smart, indeed.

Spring Bonnets for the Small Girl

Spring bonnets for the small girl have already arrived in as great numbers and variety as those for their mammas. Some of the headgear shown for the little girls is also as elaborate as that which will adorn older heads. Picturesque pokes are to be seen among the new French importations and many quaint shapes that somewhat suggest the mob cap and the Oriental turban. These are of fancy straw of the most exquisite quality and the most delicate tones.

The straw, which is seen only in expensive bonnets, is like spun silver or a delicate silver gauze over fleecy white. A bonnet of this straw had a band of silver and pale blue ribbon around the crown, over which was a frill of yellow lace. A pink fancy straw bonnet was trimmed with bands of pleated yellow lace and pink and white satin berries made from ribbon. A third elaborate little bonnet of yellow fancy straw had a band of blue and gold brocade ribbon around the crown. At the side of the bonnet were ornaments made of small beads. Around the face there was a ruffle of fine yellow lace.

Simpler Styles.

Although these lovely, elaborate little bonnets are most fascinating there are others among the new designs which are much simpler. Many persons consider these more suitable for little girls. Very simple straw bonnets in the natural color are trimmed with narrow white satin ribbon knotted and made into a chou in the center of which nestle tiny pink buds. Straw colored bonnets are also trimmed with quillings and pleatings of white satin and with tiny wreaths of little buds or forget-me-nots.

The white pique and mull hats are most attractive. Those of thin material are made with shirred crowns and ruffled brims, and trimmed with tiny posies. Some of these bonnets have the material tucked as well as gathered on the sides of the crown, so that an effect of tiny ruffles is produced. There are also bonnets made of tiny ruffles of Valenciennes lace.

THOUGHTS.

Those who wish to achieve great things in this busy world must first learn the inestimable value of God's infinite silence.

It is not in the maddening crowd that great ideas come to us readily; ideas that live and burn with the steady flame of sympathetic intelligence; ideas that have the rarest of all power, that of convincing the listener that they are living thoughts.

Darkness, quiet—night, in fact—is filled with the possibilities of drawing the great thoughts to our lives.

These thoughts at times seem like rays of moonlight, too scintillating and brilliant even for us to capture and keep; but when they are allowed to flit, phantom like, beyond our grasp they seldom return to us again clothed in the same radiance.

Inspiration is the parent of our most beautiful thoughts. A beautiful woman, a happy child, a garden spot in nature, a great passion and the joys of parenthood all develop and elevate us to the understanding of great thoughts. But that which awakens our receptivity to its depths is sorrow; not the tempestuous, wild grief that storms and bruises itself against the bulwarks of fate, but the sorrow that is too deep for words, the sorrow that changes the whole life of those who are left behind, ennobling them and bringing forth in them a loving tolerance for the weaknesses of humanity; an intuitive sympathy for the unspoken sorrows of men, which makes others who are weary and heavy laden seek them for comfort. These are the thoughts that make strong men pause and listen, and that sanctify the tear drop of memory.

HEAVY BRIDE.

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 28.—A marriage license was issued Monday by Clerk Strait to Anna Lauman, 36, of Blackford county, and George L. VanHook, 24, Gas City, laborer. Rev. Parker tied the knot. The bride tips the beam at close to 300 and is one of the largest women ever procuring a license in this country. This is her second voyage on the sea of matrimony. Her first husband is dead.

SHIRTWAIST POINTS.

Cut the front of the collarband round, so as not to irritate the neck.

Cut the buttonhole in back through only one thickness of the fabric, so that the collar button cannot touch the skin or roll down the back.

Sew in at the center back a narrow strip of belting, fastening with a buckle tucks and use narrow inserted beading on your seams.

Always use the finest needle and thread possible with the material you are working on. It makes a difference.

Of course, you cannot do all this for every shirtwaist and lingerie blouse you make.

But is is useful to have always on hand two or three of these superlatively durable and presentable garments.

Sew narrow bias binding over frayed shirtwaist cuffs.

Make longer buttonholes for round buttons than for flat.

Take your pick of our Fancy Overcoats this week for $10. Some of them are worth $35.

"RED LETTER" COMIC OPERA MAKES A GREAT HIT AT HOME.

Tuneful Airs, Fine Choruses, Cast That Can Act, Splendid Ensembles and Much for All to Do That is Well Done—Will Be Repeated Tonight and Wednesday Night.

It is a success. "The Red Letter," John B. Archer's comic opera, produced for the first time last night to an audience that crowded the Majestic theater, was received with the applause and approval that promises a future for the work. For weeks local singers have been rehearsing this opera which Mr. Archer, who is well known as the organist of the First Presbyterian church, and as director of the Apollo male chorus, has been at work on for several years. Such talented singers as Mrs. Clara Zollars-Bond, D. Ferd Urbahns, Mrs. E. H. Kirkland and A. J. Lang have devoted their time to weeks of arduous rehearsal and younger singers of less experience, who took principal roles, Miss Florence Lang, Ralph Yarnelle, Ronald Dawson, Howard Van Swearingen and Herbert Lang, have been equall faithful and persevering in effort. The principals, the chorus members and Miss Emil Verweire, the accompanist, and Mr. Archer, with his assistant in the staging of the production, George Herbert, of Chicago, have earned collectively and individually, not just approving comment, but serious and high praise. Really, the performance last night was a remarkably good one and would have done great credit to the first night work of professionals.

Musically there is no question of the opera's success. It is a well written work, it has many beautiful passages, it has spirit and action. Solos and choruses are of a character to please the ear at one hearing and to linger in the memory afterwards. There are tuneful airs, beautiful choruses and many catchy lyrics. There are three duets of much charm. "The Same Old Game," sung by Mrs. Bond and Miss Lang, "In the Olden Time" by Mrs. Bond and Mr. Urbahns" and "A Tender Kiss" by Miss Lang and Mr. Dawson are beautiful numbers and were received with the enthusiasm they deserved. The ensemble work was at all times good and effective, both from musical and stage effect standpoints.

Of the work of the principals much can be said in approval. Mrs. E. H. Kirkland met with a serious accident in the dressing room of the theater just before the performance began. She misjudged the distance in going down stairs and stumbled and fell, injuring her knee so seriously that she had to be removed to a hospital and a surgeon called to attend her. Without a moment's preparation it became necessary for some member of the chorus to step into the breach and that was done by Miss Carina Banning, whose aptness enabled her to both sing and act the part so well that that part of the performance did not suffer from the change. Miss Banning was well received by the audience and many people did not know that she was not supposed to be in the role.

Mrs. Bond's singing and acting of the role of Rita was charming and graceful and her appearance was equally attractive. There was no prettier part of the performance than the duet between Mrs. Bond and Miss Lang. Miss Lang has a rich toned contralto and she is unaffected both in singing and in manner. Even Miss Lang's friends were surprised at the ease with which she carried her part and the importance of her role. Mr. Urbahns always sings well and the beauty of his voice had ample opportunity last night, both in solo and duet numbers. His part was particularly well suited to his personality and he made the part one of distinction. The parts taken by Mrs. Bond and Mr. Urbahns are the real love story of the book of the opera and their solos are of the prettiest numbers. Mrs. Bond has sung as well before, but she has never had a part which she carried with such appreciation of the dramatic possibilities as in the role of Rita.

With the exception of the role of the King, ably taken and sung by A. J. Lang, a veteran in amateur comic opera work, the men had comedy roles. Of them Ralph Yarnelle had the smallest part, but by no means the least of them, for he made a decided hit in the first act. His disguise was so perfect that his best friends didn't recognize him. Herbert Lang made a hit and brought forth more than one burst of laughter as Lieutenant Dapper. A fine speaking voice and no small appreciation of the humor of his role was a noticeable feature of Dapper's work. And what is true of Herbert Lang was as much so of another small part, that taken by Howard Van Sweringen, who made much of little. Mr. Van Swerlingen is one of the most promising young tenors in the city and his voice is very musical whether speaking or singing. Ronald Dawson, as Fritz Vindekind and Mr. Herbert as General Flans had the bulk of fun making. Mr. Dawson may be said to have created a role for he sang and acted a part with convincing merit. In fact Mr. Dawson became a character which he looked and acted with a skill and ease that was anything but amateurish. His song with the children and his duet with Miss Lang were taking parts of the performance. Mr. Herbert makes no pretension to being a singer, but he easily dominates the stage with his nonsense when he is on and his part lent vigor and spirit to the production. A number of little children gave variety to the performance and contributed to its beauty. They were Julia Bash, Margaret Ann Keegan, Louise Metzger, Elizabeth Urbahns, Grace Misner and Helen Farnan, who appeared with Mr. Dawson in his solo, "Baby Jim," and Grace Misner, who danced alone, Muriel Larimore in beautiful red and Esther McCarthy in yellow costumes, who danced together, and Helen Farnan, who danced in wooden shoes. All of the dancers were encored.

The opera will be produced tonight and tomorrow night and the sale of seats has been very large for both performances. As an entertainment "The Red Letter" in its entirety is beautiful and with effective spotlights, a larger orchestra and few minor changes in the book can be made a production that should have a run of weeks in a large city.

Reineke's orchestra played, with Miss Verweire at the piano, and Mr. Archer directing the opera. Frank X. Mohr is business manager of the production.

Dr. Kane has moved his office to the corner of Wayne and Webster Sts., opposite the public library. 28-2-4

RECIPES.

Roast Pork Tenderloins.

That they may be juicy it is well to split them and put together with a central filling of stuffing made as for chicken, but with a pronounced flavor of onion; a trifle of sage may be substituted for thyme if the flavor is preferred. Tie well with twine and when in the pan cover each roll with thin slices of larding pork. Have the oven moderately hot that the meat may be well done yet not too brown, and baste often. With this serve a dish of mashed potatoes and turnips. Boil the two vegetables separately in salted water, then drain, mix and mash together, two parts of potato to one of turnip. Add a liberal amount of butter and seasoning.

Peaches in Jelly.

Open a quart can of peaches, remove the pieces of fruit and strain the syrup. Measure and add water, if necessary, to make two cupfuls and a half. If not quite sweet enough, heat slightly and add sugar to taste; then stir in a scant half package of gelatine which has been soaked in a half cupful of cold water. Pour a half inch in a wetted mold and place on ice until firm; add a layer of the fruit, either whole or cut, with enough more of the liquid jelly to cover and again put aside until firm, keeping the remainder of the jelly in a warm place where it will not stiffen. Repeat until the materials are used then set away until firm. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

OPENING OF ART EXHIBIT.

Annual Exhibition of Pictures Now Being Shown in Public Library.

The second annual municipal art exhibit is now open to the public in the up stairs rooms of the public library. The exhibition is under the auspices of the Fort Wayne School of Art and will be shown about ten days. It is free to the public day and evening. The pictures have been hung by Mr. Grafton, of Michigan City, who is well known here by his work in portrait painting and from his residence during the months of such work. The exhibit is the collection of pictures made each year by Mrs. M. F. Johnston, of Richmond, and is shown in a circuit of towns of the state. There are about eighty pictures in the collection this year, of which the greater number are oils, some valued in the thousands of dollars. Louis Mora shows "The Cruise of the Elida," J. W. Alexander "The Mother," Colin Campbell Cooper "The Old Church at Dortrecht, Holland," John Johansen "A Prelude," Mr. Grafton, portraits of Mrs. M. F. Johnston and Mrs. Samuel D. Hanna and a shipping scene. There are two water scenes by Alexander Robinson, a "Gray Day in France" by Emma Lampert and some fine work by Mr. Bundy, Mr. and Mrs. Adams and Mr. Steele and other artists not of Indiana.

NEW CONSTITUTION PASSES IN SENATE

Powers of Steuben is Only Democrat to Vote No on Question.

A MINORITY PROTEST

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—The constitution proposed by Governor Marshall at a party caucus two weeks ago, which makes sweeping changes in the present state organic law, was passed in the senate at 6:30 p. m. last night by a vote of 29 to 21.

With the exception of Senator Powers, of Angola, democrat, who voted against its passage, the vote was a strictly party one, with democrats favoring it and the republican minority not only voting, but speaking and protesting against its passage.

Not since the opening of the present legislative session has so much discussion centered around any one topic in the upper house. The bill was taken up a few minutes before 3:30 o'clock, and for three hours the oratorical battle waged. The final tally showed all the fifty members voting, although they were not all in the senate chamber when their names were called.

Absentees are Voted.

Senators on the minority side asked that the roll show the republican members who were not in the chamber as voting against the bill and the democratic members asked that the majority absentees be recorded as voting in favor of it.

While the republican members made use of many arguments against the adoption of the Marshall plan of amending the constitution, and while many noted authorities on constitutional affairs were quoted against the bill, its passage was a foregone conclusion. At no time during the three hours' discussion was there any doubt of the outcome, nor was there any question as to who would line up for the bill and who would be opposed to it.

Following is the final vote on the bill: The vote on the new constitution bill was recorded as follows:

AYES.

Senator Powers, the only democrat in the upper house who spoke and voted against the passage of the measure, made a speech against its enactment similar to the argument he used last Friday, when the bill was up for consideration on second reading.

Deplores Hasty Action.

"I feel it a duty I owe to the members of my party that I explain my position more explicitly in dissenting in this matter," said Senator Powers.

He declared his party was violating the provisions of the constitution, but because the party did, he did not feel impelled to do likewise. Continuing, Mr. Powers said:

"I think we might, with some consistency, before we act too hastily, listen to the voice of wisdom:

"In 1860 Stephen A. Douglas said: 'I understand it, that the views of the people expressed in the constitution must command the obedience of every citizen.'

"Senator Doolittle, of the United States senate of 1860 said: 'The constitution is the supreme law, binding upon every citizen of the state. Can a state put an end to the supremacy of the constitution without proceeding according to the law?' Why should we act with so much haste?

"May we not take time to consider that five years were consumed in adopting and altering the articles of confederation, by such master minds as James Madison and John Jay? And yet our state senate would adopt articles for a new constitution in less than a week.

Holds Plan Untenable.

"I have a conscientious feeling that the proposed attempt to make this constitution is untenable. The constitution of our state can not be attacked collaterally. Neither can it be avoided in an indirect way. If our constitution, which we have maintained for fifty years, is wrong, then it can be amended. In support of this proposition, I desire to quote from John Quincy Adams, who said in 1835, 'If the constitution is wrong it can be amended. Until it is amended it is my duty to follow it implicitly.'"

For the first time since the constitution question has been discussed, friends of the plan had their innings when the bill came up for discussion. Senator Stotsenburg, who has fathered the bill throughout all the discussion, led in its behalf, and several other democratic senators spoke in favor of the constitution and in favor of the plan of adopting it.

Senators Harlan, Curtis and Kistler spoke in favor of the bill, the latter having placed a check on further comment when, at 6:30 o'clock, he concluded the argument on the bill and then demanded the previous question.

Minority Voices Protest.

All of the republican senators signed and submitted a formal protest against the passage of the bill and, this will be included in the Senate Journal. The protest follows:

We, the undersigned, members of the senate of the Sixty-seventh General Assembly of the state of Indiana, protest against the passage of engrossed house bill No. 407 and its further consideration by the senate on these grounds.

"That the proposed plan of revising the constitution of the state is in violation of the present constitution of the state. (1) Because the general assembly has no power to adopt a new constitution, but has power only to provide for a convention to be selected by the people for that purpose. (2) Because the proposed constitution is no more than a series of amendments to the present constitution and therefore can only be lawfully adopted by submitting the same to two sessions of the legislature and afterward to the electors for adoption as provided by Sec. 1, Art. 16 of the present constitution."

HAIR ADVICE

VALUABLE TO THE PREMATURELY GRAY-HAIRED PEOPLE.

What a pity it is to observe so many people with thin and faded hair, and then realize that the most of these people might have a fine, healthy head of hair if they would but use the simple "sage tea" of our grandmothers combined with other ingredients for restoring and preserving the hair. No one, young or old, need have gray hair, weak, thin or falling hair, dandruff or any troubles of the sort if they would but use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. On the contrary, it is possible to have healthy, vigorous hair, of perfect color, by a few applications of this remarkable preparation.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly removes dandruff, leaves the scalp clean and healthy, promotes the growth of the hair and restores the natural color of hair which has become faded or gray. It is a clean wholesome dressing, which may be used at any time and with perfect safety. Don't neglect your hair. Start to-day with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle and is recommended and sold by

UNITED STATES ARMY'S FIRST AVIATOR

LIEUT. B. D. FOULOIS

Lieutenant Ben D. Foulois, of the United States army, who has been sent with a Wright aeroplane to aid in preserving neutrality on the Mexican border, is the first army officer to become an aviator, having learned the art under the tuition of Orville Wright a couple of years ago. He has had at Fort Sam Houston the only aeroplane the government owns, but he has not been flying in it. It is of the old type of Wright machines.

He is accompanied by Phil Parmelee, in the new Wright machine loaned to the government by Robert J. Collier. This machine is capable of carrying two passengers.

By means of powerful field glasses one of the aeronauts will be able to observe a very large territory and will keep watch on the movements of the revolutionists.

A SELFISH VIEWPOINT.

Champ Clark, the democratic leader, was discussing, at a Washington, banquet, a measure of which he disapproved.

"This measure," he said, "is a sign of narrowness and selfishness. It reminds me of the scholar to whom his teacher said on the 1st of February:

"'Why was George Washington a great man?'

"'Because,' said the scholar promptly, 'we don't have no school on his birthday.'

MAHER RODE HIS WAY TO MILLION

New England Lad Has the Confidence of Public and Money.

ENGLISH LIKE HIM

New York, Feb. 28.—When "Danny" Maher was thrown into the saddle carried by the brown horse Kinnikinic, at Bennings track, Washington, twelve or thirteen years ago, no one thought that the little brown-eyed lad would be the premier jockey of England and, one might say, the world.

In those days he was a little chap to whom everybody seemed to take a liking. From that victory on Kinnikinic Maher arose to fame that will live in turf history as long as turf records are preserved. The name of Maher will be linked with those of the great Fred Archer, George Fordham, Tom Cannon and, lest it is forgotten, the greatest jockey that ever rode a horse, in the estimation of all American horsemen—Isaac Murphy.

It is an honor, indeed, to have the name of a typical American horseman attached to the list of the greatest riders the world ever knew, but such has been the result of Maher's ability, integrity and conduct, both in this country and abroad.

While he was engaged by the late William Clarke, who tried to win the classics of the American turf by buying the best horses obtainable, he was accused by his employer of pulling up Bannister in the suburban handicap immediately after the start was made. There was always a difference of opinion regarding the accusation, but Mr. Clarke was so positive in his belief that he kept Maher on the ground for several months, not permitting him to ride a race. Maybe Mr. Clarke had good reason for his action, and maybe it was not the fault of Maher, who had a very bitter temper in those days and would beat a horse severely if it did not act according to his will.

This was such a frequent occurrence with Maher that he was fined and set down more than once for the offense. At Brighton Beach he lost many of his friends and admirers because he beat a horse over the head with his whip when the animal was beaten in the sixth race of the day, the other five having been won by the now celebrated jockey.

From a poor little chap in Harford "Danny" Maher today is reported to be worth $1,000,000. Much of this he has made riding horses, more came from handsome presents and the remainder, it is claimed, has been accumulated by good financial investments brought about through the friendship Maher holds with some of the peers and financiers of England.

That the little Hartford boy is well thought of in England is gleaned from the following taken from a London sporting paper in an article on the success of jockeys riding in England:

"No exaggeration is involved in writing that the jockeys who have attracted the lion's share of public attention during the last few years are 'Danny' Maher and Frank Wooton. It seems strange that a man from America and a boy from the Antipodes should occupy such a position when we recall the names of Britishers like Fred Archer, George Fordham, Tom Cannon, Mornington Cannon, the brothers Loates, John Osborne and a great many others who sustained the reputation of this country for superlative horsemanship for so long a period, and the situation gives cause for not too complacent reflection.

"It may be a mooted point whether native jockeyship shows a decline—though in view of accomplished facts there appears some reason for thinking it does; but it cannot, at all events, be denied that Maher and Wooton have achieved distinction on their merits, and they are likely, apparently, to hold their own for an almost indefinite time."

MARQUETTES WIN A TIGHT SERIES

Battle in the Games Played by St. Mary's Athletic Club League.

THE BOWLING SCORES

A tight series marked the bowling at St. Mary's alleys last night between the Fort Wayne Home Builders and the Marquettes in which the latter lost the first game then took a brace and copped off the next two, but the losers were up and going all the time and kept things warm for the fireside crowd.

Hoffman practically decided the series when he rolled 221 in his final game and this gave him the best single mark of the evening, but he fell short in his first games and Delegrange landed the average. For the losers Al Luley ran 191 in the closing round and copped the average and high score from Charley Brink who was the contender. The scores:

EASY FOR THE BERGHOFFS.

Fox Brothers Fall for Three Games at Brunswick.

In the First Brunswick league games the Berghoffs had easy victims in the Fox Brothers who fell for three straight games with never a chance to win out. Henry Pranger led the procession and got the best average with three consistent games in which he picked off the only double of the contest. With the exception of Brossard the other men were below their averages. Bolt landed 188 in his final effort and it gave him the honors. The scores:

GRIP FLOORS "KNOCKOUT" BROWN

New York Battler Expects to Be In Shape to Face Wolgast, However.

New York, Feb. 28.—"Knockout" Brown, who is one of the half-dozen leading aspirants for the lightweight championship, is ill with the grip. His condition is not regarded as serious, however. He has been battling with a severe cold ever since his bout with "One-Round" Hogan, the Californian. It appears that he was not feeling quite fit just before his fight with Hogan, and a few hours after that affair a physician declared he had the grip. Brown at once began a course of Turkish baths and went to bed. He expects to be out again tomorrow and is confident he will be in shape to fight Wolgast Friday.

Coulon is After the Champion

"JOHNNY" COULON

New Orleans, La., Feb. 28.—Frankie Conley of Kenosha, Wis., who was defeated by Johnny Coulon in a twenty-round bout at the West Side A. C. Sunday afternoon, has challenged the Chicago lad for a return match. Conley asserts his failure to beat the bantamweight champion Sunday was due to the fact that he took off ten pounds in eight days to make the weight.

GRANT SIGNS UP BIG NEW HURLER

Evansville Owner Puts Tom Cantwell on His Try-out Squad.

HAS A BIG ROSTER

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 28.—A pitcher has just been secured by the Evansville management, who is expected to help land the Evas among the "upper four" this season. Owner A. A. Grant announcing yesterday the signing of Tom Cantwell as an addition to his pitching staff. Cantwell was a free agent and able to sign where he willed.

He is a graduate of Georgetown university, and was with the Cincinnati Reds the whole of the 1909 season, and part of 1910. He went to Milwaukee in 1910, where he participated in a number of games. He had trouble with Manager McCloskey, however, and was by some "hook or crook" given his unconditional release. McCloskey later went to Butte, and attempted to land Cantwell for his 1911 club, but the latter would not fall for his offer after their first failure to agree.

The latest addition to the Eva ranks is a big right-hander, six feet in height, and weighs 175 pounds in shape. He has been attending law school at Georgetown this winter.

Whether the famous shortfield fence will be done away with by the Eva management has not been decided. Owner Grant having almost convinced himself the fence is almost as much of a detriment to his team as to the opposing club.

Twenty-seven men are now on the Eva roster, fourteen of whom are new men. The records of the latter have been carefully investigated and Aggie expects to discover and develop a number of likely men in the bunch. The list of old men is as follows: Grant, Graft, Lewis, McBriar, Lavelle, Dugger, Centilivre, Markham, Grefe, Doty, Saker, Hadley, Cristall, Sterzer. Of these men Bill Cristall, pitcher; Edgar Doty, pitcher, and Courtney McBriar, second baseman, are on the market. The new men are: Platt, Wilkinson, Brosius, outfielders; Fritz, Damme, Jacobs, catchers; Sears, Morgan, Burke, Withers, Myers, Cantwell, pitchers; Eastman, Wuffli, infielders.

The Eva owner has received numerous requests for surplus material, and expects to put out the youngsters who fail to make good, on optional agreement.

PEELED HIS WAY HOME

New York, Feb. 28.—C. Pulliam, who says he is a cousin to the late president of the National Baseball league, is quite sure that he peeled all of the potatoes in the world while working his way home from Hamburg on the President Lincoln, which arrived today.

The young man, who says that he saw the elephant and the tiger at Monte Carlo, viewed the dashing procession in Paris, and bit a few chunks from the pie of adventure in other European centers, had $10,000 when he went forth to swap real money for experience.

He had the experience and 23 cents—the same being the value of the one mark (German money) he was paid for valiant wrbilding of potatoes—when the ship tied up at Hoboken today. Pulliam found himself in Hamburg broke. The President Lincoln was in port awaiting her time to steam over the sea. He told his wild oats culture story to a steward, who offered to bring him over in exchange for sculpture work on the murphies.

PITCHER CAMNITZ IS MARRIED.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Howard Camnitz, pitcher for the Pittsburg league team, was married today to Mary Lawrence Claxon. Both are residents of Boyle county, Ky.

LAJOIE INVENTED THE PLAY

Larry Lajoie, of the Cleveland club, is credited with inventing a play which greatly reduced the effectiveness of the hit-and-run, and which limits that style of play to batters who can hit to right field.

A bluff start by the runner at first, when the hit-and-run was to be played, showed whether the second baseman or shortstop would cover second to take the throw and the batter tried to hit through the position to be left unguarded. Larry saw that this could be broken up by switching orders on covering second. It was a simple play, but had long been overlooked. The batter, instead of hitting through an unguarded position, hit into a sure double play if he made a grounder. That was the end of the bluff start to see who would cover.

The necessity of both the second baseman and the shortstop being able to tag out runners was another result of Larry's play. It naturally followed that the better infielder at putting the ball on the runner would take most of the throws. The batter tried to hit through the strong player's territory, taking it for granted that he would cover second. The infielders at second began to divide the work according to the batters being right or left-field hitters.

The hit-and-run has come to be considered a good play only when the batter can hit the ball between the first and second basemen. As few can do this, the hit-and-run has ceased to be the style of any one team.

OLDFIELD TO QUIT GAME.

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 28.—Barney Oldfield left for the north to accept, it is understood, a proposition of the American Automobile association to buy his machines and retire him from the motor speed game. Approximately $25,000 has been offered Oldfield for the Blitzen Benz racer and other smaller cars. By selling his racers and quitting the game, Oldfield would withdraw from a protracted contest with the association, beginning when Oldfield raced Jack Johnson.

DR. CARSON WILL HELP THE CAUSE

Will Make a Fight Against the Draft of McDermott, He Says.

DIDN'T GET CHECK

West Baden, Ind., Feb. 28.—Dr. Frank R. Carson, president of the Central league, Owner Claude H. Varnell, of Fort Wayne, and Dr. James Casey, his manager for 1911, are here for a stay of a couple of weeks and while the men are together they will take up and thresh out with Secretary John H. Farrell, of the national association, the Providence draft of Frank McDermott, a third baseman on Mr. Varnell's club.

Dr. Carson has not had submitted to him any evidence that Providence made the draft within the specified time and a thorough search of his records indicates conclusively that no check was received. The doctor is a power in minor league ball, a clear-cut and well-versed magnate and he contends that the fault lies with Providence and that he thinks Fort Wayne should not suffer by any neglect on the part of the Eastern leaguers.

Mr. Varnell believes that under careful training and playing regularly McDermott will develop into a big league possibility as he is young and fast and for that reason does not want to let go of him. However, the president will insist that he be shown and will not stand for any imposition.

ROY HALE TO COME BACK.

Old Pitcher Will Make Another Effort to Hold a Job.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 28.—Roy Hale, whose last engagement in the Central league was with the Dayton club when Bade Myers was the manager, will try to come back and has signed a contract with Dr. Harley Parker, owner of the local franchise.

Hale was let out because he could not keep in condition, but he says that he has relieved himself of a great portion of that 260 pounds of flesh that proved such a handicap and that he is in form to stand a season in the Central league. He will get a chance and has been ordered to report with the other players. His home is at Allegan, Mich.

With Owner Parker these days is his wife and daughter. All are at present quartered at the Livingston hotel, but are putting in a great share of the time "house-hunting" and they have found it no cinch to find an empty house in the Furniture City.

Parker made a trip to Ramona Athletic park yesterday and saw it in its sea of spring mud. The new owner has many changes in view for the park which he will take up with the owners. The seating capacity may be increased as the season progresses, although under the 1910 management the present seating capacity seemed just a little greater than necessary.

BUSY AT ZANESVILLE.

Must Have More Money to Get Together a Good Ball Team.

Zanesville, O., Feb. 28.—Within the next few days Manager Raidy is expected in the city from Grand Rapids, and then it will be a case of getting down to real hard, early season work. Players are beginning to apply in bunches for jobs and try-outs with the team, and it will require the discrimination of an expert from now on to separate the good from the indifferent and the bad from the worse, and Raidy will have to do the sorting. It is just thirty days now until reporting time.

During the past week the directors have been busily engaged in winding up their winter's work, and now expect to inaugurate a big campaign for additional funds. More money is badly needed, and it will require some tall hustling to keep the financial end of the club up with the procession. The automobile has been purchased, and it will be the center of attraction from now on until July 4. The machine is one of the best on the market, and ought to key public interest up to the right pitch. It is the intention of the directors to give the suburban lot, donated to the ball company by W. B. Cosgrove, to the person selling the largest number of tickets.

President Shryock stated last evening that the contracts had been sent to the regular players and he expected all to be on hand by March 28. A number of local players have asked for the privilege of working out with the regular squad during the training period. Their requests will probably be granted. A meeting of the directors will be held Tuesday evening for the purpose of arranging with the lessees of the fair grounds whereby the baseball company can hold the big carnival and celebration.

The Toledo regular American association team will positively play here April 3 and 4.

BET ON BASEBALL RACE.

Bookmakers Attempt to Break In On the National Sport.

New York, Feb. 28.—Sporting men in the larger cities of the country received by express quotations from a betting syndicate that is willing to accept wagers on professional baseball games. This syndicate, with a home office at Newport, Ky., has spread circulars broadcast offering to make books on the National and American league and American association races.

The betting syndicate announces that it is prepared to accept commissions on any amount over $5. The circular stipulates that commissions should be sent by express, telegraph or telephone.

Quotations are made as follows: Eight to 5 are offered that New York finished first in the National league. The Giants price for second is 3 to 5 and 1 to 4 for third place. In the American league Philadelphia is favorite at 6 to 5, 1 to 2 for second place and 1 to 5 for third place.

ERB GETS AN ENGAGEMENT.

"Kid" Erb, the local lad who appeared at the Princess rink last week, is booked to meet Young Discher at Peru this week and is also scheduled to meet Frankey White in a few days.

Glimpses at the Sport World

Eddie Wheeler's Honey Boys is one of the names proposed by the fans at Terre Haute for the new club. There are others equally ridiculous.

Wild Bill Donovan has been combining newspaper work with his spring practice and making a little side money while he was getting into condition.

Manager Marty Hogan is a bit bothered with holdouts at Lancaster, Pa., but thinks that his men will come around all right before reporting time.

Owen Moran, the fighter, has purchased a biplane and intends to drive it. No danger for him, of course, as he is a lightweight.

Harry Martin is one of five catchers Manager Fred Clarke, of the Pittsburg team, has ordered to report next week at Hot Springs.

Pitcher Falkenberg, of Cleveland, will solicit American league players for accident insurance. "The field is good; lots of accidents playing baseball," says the rangy curver.

H. Kister Free is the president of the York Tri-State club and not a character in one of Charles Hoyt's plays. We have this on the authority of Frank Lane, who played many Hoyt roles in his career.

Arthur Schaefer, the Giants' third substitute shortstop, spent the winter playing in Japan in order to be fit for the twenty-five games he is sure to play for McGraw this season.

Bowser, the Oakland outfielder from Flint, Mich., looks good on paper for he led the Southern Michigan league last year with a batting average of .342 in 116 games, which is sousing the ball some.

Russell Ford was handed a contract last summer and told Manager Connie Mack that it suited him and he would sign it and return it. During the winter people at Hagerstown, Md., told him he was worth more money and he believed it. Now he has concluded to sign for what the Athletic boss offered him in the first place.

"Doc" Ralston, who was on the Wheeling roster several years ago and who went to Washington last fall, is to be given a chance with the Senators and has been ordered to report to the club next week.

Owner Charles Murphy of the Chicago Cubs, is to have a big shake-up in his team this year. He has hired three new peanut boys and two additional pop water kids. He has released one peanut boy because he ate too many nuts and thus paralyzed the profits of the team.

Horace Fogel, once manager of the New York Giants, released Jack Doyle because Fogel declared that he hit into a triple play purposely. Washington signed Doyle at the same salary and gave him $500 as a bonus. Just imagine a ball player deliberately hitting into a triple play.

Jimmy McAleer says he would have been glad to give Jimmy Callahan a chance to play with the Senators the coming season. "Cal has not been out of the game and will come back all right, I believe," said the Washington manager, "but Comiskey had the first call on him and it was no more than right that he should return to the Chicago club."

After holding out for several months, "Silent John" Hummel, the National's leading second baseman, has at last affixed his signature to a Brooklyn contract and the Bloomsburg boy will be found again this year covering second for the Trolley Dodgers. Ebbetts advanced the figure he had previously quoted and Hummel dropped a peg on his price and the contract was signed, leaving "Doc" Scanlon the only holdout on the Brooklyn team.

SHOP LEAGUE SESSION.

President Wilson Has Called a Meeting of His Organization.

President J. V. Wilson, of the Fort Wayne Shop league, has issued a call for a meeting of the directors of the club at the Commercial club this evening. For a week the men have been soliciting advertisements for their score cards and have met with most encouraging success and the meeting tonight is called for hearing reports.

Less trouble has been encountered in the work for the reason that business men understand that the playgrounds cause will receive the benefit and they do not hesitate to come across with their ads. It is likely that applications will be received from the Western Gas Construction company and the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company and that the ten-club circuit can be arranged.

MILD, GENTLE LAXATIVE FOR WOMEN GIVEN FREE

So many of the ills of women are due to habitual constipation, probably because of their false modesty on the subject, that their attention cannot be too strongly called to the importance of keeping the bowels open. It is always important to do that, regardless of the sex, but it is especially important in women.

From the time the girl begins to menstruate until menstruation ceases she has always vastly better prospects of coming through healthy if she watches her bowel movements. If you find yourself constipated, with bad breath, pimply complexion, headaches, belching gas and other symptoms of indigestion and constipation, take a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a woman's favorite laxative. You will find that you can do away with salts, strong cathartics, etc., which are entirely unsuited to woman's requirements.

Mrs. Katherine Haberstroh of McKees Rocks, Pa., and Mrs. A. E. Herrick of Wheeler, Mich., who was almost paralyzed in her stomach and bowels, are now cured by the use of this remedy. A free sample bottle can be obtained by addressing Dr. Caldwell, and after you are convinced of its merits buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

OLDEST PHYSICIAN IN CITY RETIRES FROM PRACTICE.

DR. BROOKFIELD GARD.

QUITS PRACTICE AFTER 50 YEARS

Because of Declining Health Dr. Brookfield Gard Gives Up Offices.

OLDEST PHYSICIAN

Dr. Brookfield Gard, now the oldest physician in Fort Wayne, having been engaged in the active practice of medicine continuously for half a century, over forty of which were in this city, has practically retired from the practice of his profession and given up his office rooms, which for some years past have been in the North American building on Clinton street, near Wayne.

Declining health and a general breakdown of his nervous system are the reasons for his retirement from the practice. For the past few weeks he has been confined to his home, 1020 Columbia avenue, in Lakeside, able, however, to be around the house and passing the time in reading and study. It is not probable that he will again attempt to resume office duties.

Dr. Gard is now past 78 years of age. A native of Ohio, he came to this city in 1870 from Huntington. He began practice in 1861 in Ohio, abandoning it to enter the army during the war of the rebellion as hospital steward. After the war he located at Huntington, practicing there for five years.

The doctor is one of the old school physicians, a graduate of the Eclectic Medical college of Ohio. Unlike most of the physicians of today, he prepared his own medicines. He had an extensive laboratory of his own in his offices. It resembled somewhat a miniature drug store, a very prominent feature of the offices of the doctors of years agone. They put up their own prescriptions instead of having the druggists do it for them, as is the general custom now.

Dr. Gard had an extensive practice in his former years. At one time he had almost constantly from one year's end to another three hundred families under his care. He was a medical practitioner, not a surgeon. In fact, he seldom countenanced surgical operations, believing that very many of those performed were unnecessary.

His was a familiar figure on our streets. He will be missed from the busy daily business walks, for he was well known and had a wide circle of friends.

During the last several days, because of his retirement from practice, his office equipments and laboratory have almost all been disposed of at private sale and his office rooms in the North American building vacated. While his general condition gives little hope of complete recovery, it is not critical at the present time. He is considerably improved from a week ago.

A FLYER'S JOKE.

Hubert Latham, the Antoinette flyer, was talking, at a tea in Los Angeles, to a pretty California girl.

"Mr. Latham," said the girl, as she took her nineteetnh walnut and lettuce sandwich, "tell me, does flying require any particular application?"

"Well, no, none in particular," Mr. Latham answered. "Arnica or horse liniment—one's as good as another."

WHAT STAGE BEAUTIES USE TO MAKE THE SKIN SATINY AND GIVE IT A ROSE TONE.

This Massage Cream Makes Roughest Skins Soft, Smooth and Velvety.

Every actress is her own beauty doctor, and each night on retiring, the face, neck and arms are carefully washed and dried, then gently massaged with a cerol cream. This removes powder and other impurities from the skin's surface, reduces large pores, corrects that blotchy, scaly condition and keeps the skin smooth and velvety.

To make this cream get 2 ounces of cerol from the druggist and carefully dissolve in a scant pint of boiling water. Using this cream stimulates a healthy condition, preventing chaps and roughness, and brings back the roses to the cheeks.

BIG SHOWMAN ON SALOON TOWNS

What Manager of Biggest Circus Says About Business in "Dry" Towns.

WALLACE'S LETTER

B. E. Wallace, the general manager of the Carl Hagenbeck and Great Wallace shows, one of the largest circus companies in the country, was quoted by a traveling man in this city a few days ago as saying that his circus had been better patronized during the last year in "dry" towns than in "wet" towns. The home of Mr. Wallace and also the winter headquarters of his show is at Peru and to ascertain what Mr. Wallace did say on this subject the Sentinel addressed him a letter at Peru. His answer, which is published below, shows that Mr. Wallace was probably correctly quoted, but it does not show, by any means, that he favors the "dry" conditions of things. The answer received is as follows:

"Your favor of the 25th inst. is at hand and contents noted. I do not recall the conversation you refer to in which I was quoted as saying that the circus did better business in "dry" towns last summer than those in which saloons operated under license.

"I made forty-two towns in the state of Indiana last season so I had a pretty good opportunity to observe the real working of the local option theory.

"I believe I did state not long ago to a party of gentlemen that our business seemed to be better in the 'dry' towns, but I explained at the time that the 'dry' towns were a great deal wetter than those which had licensed saloons and where the law was obeyed.

"I think I can safely say, that without exception there was more unrestricted drinking in the 'dry' towns we made last season, than in those which had saloons. I think there is a natural explanation for this, because the vote in most of the county seats show the majority for licensed saloons. The county unit however, overbalanced the vote in the towns and resulted in enough antagonism so that there has been no great effort made to regulate or control the alleged 'dry' towns. The towns in most instances not having voted themselves dry have made no great efforts to enforce the dry measures. And by the same token, the country fellows who come to town for any holiday or celebration, seem to do their full share of drinking in the alleged 'dry' towns, possibly even to a greater extent than those which are licensed to run saloons.

"My acquaintance with the liquor traffic has been gained from actual experience in daily contact with it and from having observed its workings in the different towns every day, and I am fully convinced that the liquor traffic licensed and properly regulated works a great deal more for the interests of decency and sobriety than unenforced local option.

"Yours truly,

"B. E. WALLACE."

ATTACK LIKE TIGERS.

—o—

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, saltrheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at all druggists.

MAINE'S ONLY BARN WITH A CLOCK.

Kennebunkport claims the only barn with a clock in Maine. The farm is known for miles around as the "Clock Emmons place," and has been called by that name since the big clock was installed in the top of the barn twenty years ago.

It is a landmark for miles around. The timepiece answers for the town clock and is so accurate that the farmers set their watches by it. It can be seen for quite a long distance, and causes strangers when they sight it for the first time to stare in amazement, for the last place in the world one would expect to see a full-grown clock is on the top of a barn. The farm buildings are owned by Grosse Emmons and Byron Emmons, of Lawrence, Mass. They use it for a country residence, stopping here a few months in the summer. It was formerly owned by their father, the late Thomas William Emmons, of Lawrence. The buildings are more than a century old and were formerly owned by Peter Jackson.—Lewiston Journal.

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWS A COLD

—o—

But never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar, which checks the cough and expels the cold. M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo., says, "It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and cough and was threatened with pneumonia. One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar completely cured me." No opiates, just a reliable household medicine. Dreier Drug Co.

MAN WITH MIND BECLOUDED DIES

Death Comes to Theodore Munch, Who Brooded Over Lawsuit.

IT WRECKED REASON

Theodore Munch, 41 years of age, a farmer residing in Madison township, near Monroeville, died at 5 o'clock Monday evening at St. Joseph's hospital in this city, as the outcome of most unusual circumstances. The end came as the result of brooding over a lawsuit involving a trivial sum until the mind of the man was wrecked.

Munch and his brother were the litigants in the case, which arose in a dispute over drainage of their adjoining farms, and less than $10 was involved in the controversy. It was tried in the superior court a few weeks ago, resulting in a disagreement of the jury.

A few days later Munch became violently insane at his home and it was necessary to place him in restraint. He was placed temporarily in the county infirmary, battling with the officers during much of the trip to the institution. For a time after arriving there Munch declined food, and he later became so ill that he was more tractable and was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where was equipment for giving him better care. His condition had been critical for more than a week. Munch was a member of a well-known and highly-respected Madison township family, and was married. The remains were removed Monday evening to the family home for funeral services and interment.

Remember the name Foley's Honey and Tar for all coughs and colds, for croup, bronchitis, hoarseness and for racking lagrippe coughs. No opiates. Refuse substitutes. Dreier Drug Co.

KEPT GAMING HOUSE.

Warsaw, Ind., Feb. 28.—The grand jury has returned two indictments against William B. Yost, the cigar man of this city. One for keeping a gaming house and one for selling cigarettes to minors. He has been placed under $200 for each indictment. Other finding will be forthcoming in a few days.

ACCUSED OF STEALING.

—o—

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c at all druggists.

HILGEMAN IN BUSINESS AGAIN

Takes Contract to Erect Passenger Station in Ohio.

KELLAR SHEELER IS TRANSFERRED

Goes to Richmond to Temporarily Relieve Pennsy Claim Agent.

Contractor Henry Hilgeman has been awarded the contract for the erection of a frame depot building at Middlepoint, O., for the Pennsylvania company. He is now getting the material on the grounds and will commence work as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Contractor Hilgeman has other contracts in sight and anticipates a very busy season. It was on this account that he resigned a position on the city board of works. The company will also build a new depot at Hobart the coming summer.

TRANSFERRED TO PANHANDLE.

K. L. Sheeler to Relieve a Disabled Agent.

Claim Agent K. L. Sheeler, of the Pennsylvania, will go to Richmond, Ind., soon to take charge of the claims department of the Panhandle. He takes the place of J. D. Snavely, who is seriously ill in the Deaconess hospital in Indianapolis. An Indianapolis paper says that Mr. Snavely is suffering from a breakdown and is in a bad way physically. It is supposed that Mr. Sheeler will continue in charge of the office until the recovery of Mr. Snavely, which is quite a promotion for the young man. Mr. Sheeler left at noon today for Lake Geneva, Wis., on business for the department.

TOM FOX PROMOTED.

Becomes Assistant Trainmaster of G. R. & I.

T. S. Fox has been appointed assistant trainmaster of the Southern division of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, the same becoming effective tomorrow. This is the substance of a bulletin issued last night by Supt. B. H. Hudson. No successor to Mr. Fox as chief clerk to Supt. Hudson has yet been announced, but the appointment is expected in a day or two. Mr. Fox commenced his railway career eleven years ago in the capacity of brakeman on the G. R. & I. and some time afterwards quit the road to take up office work. He was chief clerk to Trainmaster R. E. Casey several years, becoming chief clerk in the superintendent's office four years ago, succeeding James Merriwether.

WEEKLY HALF-HOLIDAY.

Grocers and Meat Shop Employes in Concerted Action.

The Meat Cutters, the Retail Clothing Clerks and the Grocery Clerks have joined hands in a fight for a weekly half-holiday and will have a joint meeting in Strodel's hall tonight to give the movement a boost. Invitations have been issued to all men engaged in these lines of work, whether they are affiliated with the unions or not, to attend the meeting tonight and the men most active in the movement anticipate successful results. It is planned to have each store in the city closed a half day each week, commencing May 1. In many other cities this is the practice and it can be carried on in Fort Wayne, the men argue, without in the least injuring the trade of the establishments affected by it.

WEIGHING THE MAILS.

Quadrennial Task Opened Briskly at Midnight.

The quadrennial weighing of all outgoing and incoming mail, which will extend over a period of 105 days, commenced at midnight Monday night. This work must be performed by the mail transfer men and the depot attaches in addition to their regular duties and it gives them all the exercise they need. In fact, they are pushed to the limit when some of the heavy mail trains come in.

INVITING MANY PEOPLE.

Fort Wayne Transportation Club Wants a Crowd.

According to the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Toledo papers, invitations have been sent to the railway men in those cities to attend the meeting of the Fort Wayne Transportation club tomorrow evening. L. A. Clark, traffic manager of Ball Brothers Glass company, will be the chief speaker.

ROAD FOREMAN OF ENGINES

J. A. Bell Goes to Detroit and Buffalo Division.

James A. Bell, of this city, will assume the duties of road foreman of engines of the Buffalo and Detroit division of the Wabash system tomorrow. He succeeds E. A. Sollitt, who has taken a higher office with another division of the system. Mr. Bell has been employed on the Wabash in the capacities of fireman, engineer and engine tamer for upwards of ten years and is regarded as one of the most competent and trustworthy engineers in the service. He is a son of W. A. Bell, foreman of the machine shop annex, of this city.

SUES TWO COMPANIES.

S. A. Sears, a Wabash engineer on the western division, has brought suit against the Wabash and Santa Fe companies for $7,000 damages and the case is now being tried in court. Sears, while employed as an engineer on the Wabash, collided with a Santa Fe train at Camden Junction about a year ago, in which accident he alleges he sustained injuries that will make him a cripple for life. Both roads figure as defendants for the reason that the Wabash and Santa Fe have a joint track arrangement between Carrollton and Camden Junction.

TO BUILD ENGINES AND CARS.

W. N. Darrow, superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania railroad, has given out the information that the decision of the interstate commerce commission relative to freight and passenger rates will have no bearing upon work upon new engines and cars ordered from the Altoona shops some time ago. It will proceed, though perhaps less slowly, as will also the repairing of old rolling stock equipment.

TO BOOM CALIFORNIA

Tomorrow is postcard day in California, and according to custom thousands of cards will be mailed by people in that state to their friends in the east, setting forth the alleged advantages, climatic and otherwise, California possesses over some of the states hereabouts. The railway companies encourage the observance of postcard day, for it may result in business for them.

ENTERS IN BUSINESS

W. F. Foster is now engaged in the real estate and insurance business at Hobart, Ind. He was for many years employed as agent of the Pennsylvania at that point, resigning several months ago. Mr. Foster is a brother to J. A. Foster, foreman of the Pennsylvania airbrake room in this city.

A HAREM SKIRT BLOCKS TRAFFIC

A "TURKISH TROUSER" SKIRT
FROM THE SKETCH.

New York, Feb. 28.—Attired in harem t——, that is wearing Turkish bloo——, well, anyway, bifurcated skirts or something, and some other regular clothes, a dashing blonde walked across Brooklyn bridge to Manhattan, threaded her way through Park row to Broadway and Fulton street and disappeared into the Hudson terminal. About 687,911 persons, more or less, fought to get a look at the—her. Traffic was blocked. Cropsey's Cossacks rode up and down breaking out a lane for the vision, casting a cautious glance the while. Several "near" riots were narrowly averted.

The special production dawned on a startled public on the Brooklyn bridge promenade. She was young, with blonde hair and blue eyes. She is reported to have worn a hat, although none of the hundreds questioned could swear positively to that. They also realized in a vague way that she wore a black fur coat, a blue skirt, or rather two skirts, one fore, the other aft and split on the right and left sides. The skirts reaching to just below the knees. And those garments which broke up Bernstein's latest play in Paris appeared below. All are unanimous about this fact.

Incidentally she wore black silk stockings and black shoes. The—the duplicate garments were secured around the ankle, just like those worn by the harem beauties of the orient. The color was black. They were baggy.

QUITE SO.

"And what would the Count be if it wasn't for her father's money?"
"He'd still b— a bachelor, of course!"

NO TOLL GATES FOR MARYLAND.

The sum of $2,000,000 is to be set aside by the state of Maryland to free it of the antiquated toll gates that now obstruct traffic along some of the most important highways of the state if the plans of Gov. Crothers are adopted.

The proposal is that the present road improvement fund be increased to double its present proportions and a part of the addition be used to purchase the private pike rights in various counties. Maryland has some of the most magnificent roads in the country, and many of these are over rights of way privately controlled, to traverse which every traveler must pay.—Popular Mechanics.

FARMERS WAITING ON CROP SCARE

Holding Back Their Wheat in Expectation of Rise in Prices.

THE MARKETS TODAY

The local receipts of wheat are very light. Scarcely any is coming into the city. The farmers seem to be holding back awaiting "the crop scare," a feature of many of the years along about this time, when they expect wheat to go up in price. There is considerable wheat, the local dealers say, being kept in individual granaries throughout the country on this account.

Wheat is in splendid condition just now. It has never been better. But there is no telling what may happen. This month and next are the critical months. The thawing and the freezing again is death to the wheat and this is what is possible to occur at any time now during March, which we enter tomorrow. The price today is unchanged, remaining at 86c, where it has been for the last few days.

In almost every particular the local market was featureless today. There was nothing doing. The only activity was on the farmers' wholesale market on Barr north of Main. There probably a dozen wagons stood with grain and wood and two or three lots of dressed pork, the latter selling at 9c a pound.

Corn brought 45c, chickens 12½c, and onions $1.00 a bushel.

Eggs remain stationary at 17@18c, and butter at 23@24c. Warmer weather will bring both these necessities down to yet lower prices. The scarcity in eggs in the local market is due to the increased consumption. There was a great demand Monday and today for lettuce and the commission men found it hard to meet it. It comes from the south, points in southern Louisiana particularly, and the prices are high. It sells for 15c a pound. On vegetables the local market does not begin until late in May. As a rule in local markets the prices are remaining firm and this week is not expected to change them materially.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Feb. 28.—A majority of the active stocks opened with gains from last night's close today. Lehigh Valley and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie were the strongest, with gains of a point each. United States Rubber gained 1½ points, American Agricultural Chemical ¾, United States Steel and Reading ½ and Toledo, St. Louis & Western ⅝.

Stocks moved up in response to active buying, much of which was centered on a few specialties. Pacific Telephone advanced 3 points, Distillers' Securities 1½ and Missouri Pacific 1. Later the active stocks became heavy in tone and receded to about last night's close, with St. Paul selling a point under yesterday's final figures.

Speculation reflected a more cheerful view today when the stock market seemed to have recovered largely from the effects of the freight rates decision. The undertone was good throughout the morning. Fluctuations were narrow, but most stocks made gains. Selected stocks were pushed up steadily, American Agricultural Chemical rising 2 points and Wabash preferred, Brooklyn Transit and Interborough Metropolitan preferred a point or more. The improvement which the market showed in the second hour was due in large part to the utterances of Chairman Gary, who stated that general conditions showed improvement and that none of the roads had cancelled their orders with the United States Steel Corporation since the rate decision. Bonds were steady.

Railroad stocks came into active demand after midday, the rise commencing in Atchison and spreading into other well known dividend paying railroad stocks and industrials. Atchison moved up 2 points, American Sugar 1¾, Union Pacific 1¼ and Reading, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio and United States Steel 1 point.

Leading stocks stopped rising, but the market did not yield and speculation became quiet. Bull leaders seemed to be sacrificed for the moment with the markets display of strength after its early decline. Covering of shorts kept prices well up to their top level.

The market closed easy. Taking of profits took the edge off the advance in the late trading and there were some short lists out also by the floor professionals. Reading lost most of its advance.

CITY BREVITIES.

Dr. J. S. McCurdy, who has been confined to his home by rheumatism for several weeks, left today for Martinsville to take a course of treatment there.

Editor J. E. Buchanan, of the Auburn Dispatch, was in the city yesterday.

Fred C. Heine will erect a handsome residence in Grand boulevard, Forest park.

Thomas O'Connell, employed by the Motor Transfer company, was trampled by a horse in its stall at the company's stables and painfully injured a few days ago. He is confined to his home at Clinton and Superior streets.

Miss Patricia Welsh, who underwent an operation at St. Joseph's hospital a few weeks ago, has returned to her home.

Hon. J. M. Robinson is in Washington for a brief visit.

Major G. Will Wilson was able to be down town Monday for the first time since he suffered a fall in an attack of vertigo upon the street more than a week ago.

J. F. Mains, of Columbia City, is the guest of Corporal Johnson in this city after a visit to some of the old battlefields of the south. The two gentlemen were comrades in the First battery of Ohio Light Artillery.

THIRTY YEARS TOGETHER.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for la grippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

AT THE MAJESTIC

"THE THIEF."

The Dramatic Sensation to Be Seen at Popular Prices.

"The Thief" is announced at the Majestic theater for an engagement of three nights and two matinees, beginning Thursday afternoon. The play was written by Henri Bernstein, and tells the story of a woman who steals in order to have money for clothes to win her husband's admiration. That to begin with is a change from the average play, in which we find a husband or a wife trying to get as far away as possible from the life partner, trying to drown a past, to polish up a present, or do something else along the lines of the divorce courts.

"The Thief" is a woman deeply in love with her husband, and tortured by his indifference. She notices that he has no eyes for her in the simple clothes that she can afford. She knows that she would be as attractive and as interesting as others if she possessed their various attractive trimmings, and she is determined that she will be trimmed and decorated as they are to win her husband's attention.

"Richard" is the husband in the play. When he hears how his wife has been hounded, how she has finally stolen from their best friends to pay for the dresses that he admired, but wouldn't buy, he goes through many beautiful moral spasms. He might have saved himself the spasms if he had done one of two things. Buy the handsome things for his own wife or refrain from admiring those things on other women.

"The Thief" will not soon again be seen in this city, and this opportunity to witness a performance of the greatest dramatic sensation this country has ever known, should not be missed. Bernstein, the French dramatist, has written many plays of strength and appeal, but none so forceful or inspiring as his "Thief."

SPEEDY RELIEF FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE.

"I had an acute attack of Bright's disease with inflammation of the kidneys and bladder, and dizziness," says Mrs. Cora Thorp, Jackson, Mich. "A bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy overcome the attack, reduced the inflammation, took away the pain and made the bladder action normal. I wish every one could know of this wonderful remedy. HOME FROM LONG TRIP.

Dr. E. J. McOscar Says Panama Canal Work Goes Rapidly.

Home from a five weeks' trip which included 6,000 miles of water travel and a visit to Jamaica, Panama, Venezuela and Martinique, Dr. E. J. McOscar, who reached the city Monday, is strikingly impressed with the progress of work upon the Isthmian canal. He says officers on the work estimate the completion of the big enterprise in 1913, or two years ahead of the allotted time.

Dr. McOscar first touched at Kingston, Jamaica, and from thence went to Panama, boarding a train at the eastern end of the canal and traveling across the isthmus. Sanitary conditions there are now excellent, he says, as a result of the precautions of the government experts. Dr. McOscar and his party next visited Venezuela, South America, making a trip to Trinidad lake, the chief source of supply of asphalt. On the return trip a stop was made at Martinique to see the site of the city of St. Pierre, destroyed nine years ago by the eruption of Mt. Pelee.

Dr. McOscar, who has traveled extensively, says the trip was one of the most interesting and instructive he has ever taken.
